Watch California Develop Florida's Storm, Says Will

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 9.—Florida had a stiff breeze yesterday, which has developed with each succeeding edition in our California papers 'till by the afternoon's extras the tornado is sweeping the whole state.

I am going to set a net and perhaps catch one of the best homes that are reported to be blowing this way.

Well, Al has finally dignified the clergy, by offering to debate with one. In the old days he would have kidded that off with one wise crack.

That's the trouble with our candidates, after nominations they take things serious and lose the touch that put 'em where they are.

Yours,
WILL.

Work of erecting the route markers along the state highways in this district, is about completed. This latest step in designating the highways is one that will be appreciated by all who drive the roads, who are from other localities. The signs are close enough together that there is no difficulty in following the route. Curves and junctions on roads are also marked.

The unique scene of hay, oats and wheat harvest in adjoining fields was noted yesterday by Pa Newc, in the vicinity of Enon Valley. Usually wheat and hay harvesting are completed before the oats are cut. The rainy weather of the early summer delayed harvesting of hay and wheat.

Announcement by the head of the National Radiator Company that business has increased rapidly in the past few weeks and that the outlook is excellent for the fall and winter, is a reflection of the sentiment coming from many industrial lines. Business is steadily increasing and the outlook for the fall is most promising.

Out in Missouri, the "Show Me" state, late reports from the party primaries of Tuesday indicate that the drys swept the state in both the Republican and Democratic contests. Another indication that straw ballots don't mean a thing in the coming fall election. The silent, quiet voters are going to have a say in the general election this year.

Reports from the librarian at the New Castle show that there is quite a bit of juvenile reading. This is encouraging. If one reads good literature there will be a desire for it when maturity is reached. Dr. C. C. Green, of the city schools, said one day that we needed "traffic rules in thought and reading," as well as the traffic rules for automobiles. The average citizen's taste for literature is about as high as a grade school pupil's.

Out at the cement plant by the Butler road the box car that went over the bank with the cement is a mess and a mess is correct. The front wheels of the box car are back at the rear of the car with the hind wheels. Reminded Pa of the circus gag of a horse with his tail to the manger and the ballyhooers crying about the freak horse with his head where his tail ought to be.

You should take a look at the nifty little garden of flowers that the boys have up at No. 4 fire station. It is truly a remarkable little garden and there isn't a neater or cleaner one in the city. They are proud of it and they have a just right to be.

There is going to be a potato field meet soon. Perhaps you are not acquainted with the fact but there are some fine fields of spuds in the county districts. Farmers have started to select their planting stock and to spray the crops regularly and the results have been suprising.

The blood of one safety enthusiast in the community ran cold Wednesday afternoon at the Scottish Rite picnic. He was watching the children on the merry-go-around. Some were standing close when it was in motion. From the sides of the thing, bolts stick out. If clothes were to be caught on the bolts, the safety enthusiast shudders to think of what would happen. He suggests that they be counter-sunk.

Within two weeks, Camp John M. Phillips will be closed for the summer. During the past two months, it has showed its real worth to the county. For youth, it provides an ample safety valve for energies, and at the same time, the boys are learning things which they should know.

Pa Newc saw a rather unusual auto license tag on a truck that was passing through the city yesterday afternoon. It was one designating that the truck was from South Carolina. Few license tags from southern states other than Virginia and Florida, are seen here.

Central Firemen Formally Occupy New Fire Station

All Apparatus And Equipment Now In South Jefferson Street Station

NEW ALARM SYSTEM IS WORKING WELL

Last Run Is Made From Old East Street Station On Wednesday Evening

Shortly after noon today the last piece of fire fighting apparatus of the Central Fire department was moved from the old station on East street to the new home of the company on South Jefferson street, under the direction of Fire Chief Charles H. Lynn.

For 44 years the old station on East street has been incontinuous use by the Central Fire department. Before 1884, when the move was made to the East street station, the company was housed in a part of the city building, abutting on East Washington street.

Now In New Home

Bit by bit for the past several weeks firemen have been moving their equipment to the new home. Furniture has been in place for several days, and the old house was stripped to the bare necessities. This morning these were moved, and early this afternoon, the triple combination fire fighting truck, together with

Famous French Flier Dies Of Injuries Suffered As Plane Topples To Ground

(International News Service)

PARIS, Aug. 9.—Maurice Drouhin, noted French aviator, died today from injuries received when the trimotored monoplane "Rainbow", in which he was to attempt a trans-Atlantic flight next week, crashed to the ground at Orly flying field during a trial flight.

Drouhin's mechanic, Lanet, was killed outright in the crash. Two others aboard the plane, Giancconi, an engineer, and Manuel, a radio operator, were injured. Gianoli is said to be in a serious condition.

The crash was viewed by Rene Couzinet, designer of the plane, and Joseph Lebrix, French world flier, who was to have accompanied Drouhin on his trans-Atlantic attempt as navigator. Couzinet had been aboard the plane on all its previous flights and had stayed on the ground this time "because he wanted to see the plane in the air". Lebrix missed going up in the plane because he arrived at the flying field late. Both were deeply shocked by the tragedy.

REPORT THOUSAND KILLED BY VOLCANIC ERUPTION OFF MALAY PENINSULA

BULLETIN
(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 9.—One thousand persons were reported killed and 600 injured in a violent eruption of the volcano Rokatinda on the Island of Paloeweh, off the Malay Peninsula, according to a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam this afternoon quoting reports received there from the Dutch East Indies.

The eruption, according to the Central News message, was accompanied by a series of terrific earthquake shocks.

Six villages were said to have been destroyed.

A large section of the seaboard was submerged and nine trading vessels were sunk.

The quake threw up mighty waves which rolled shoreward leaving destruction in their wake.

The volcano had long been grumbling and smoking. The eruption developed with suddenness and violence. Huge clouds of ashes, masses of molten lava and a veritable hail of rocks shot from the Creater. Volumes of smoke and steam rolled upward while flames flashed through the murk and loud rumblings came from the bowels of the mountain.

The earthquake shocks were believed to have rocked the bottom of the sea for they were followed by a tidal wave which rolled along the coast increasing the havoc.

The island is one of the group near the Dutch East Indian Archipelo.

Governor Smith Goes To Chicago

Democratic Candidate To Attend Funeral Of George E. Brennan

(International News Service)

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Governor Alfred E. Smith will leave today for Chicago where tomorrow he will attend the funeral of George E. Brennan, veteran Democratic leader of Illinois.

Following the funeral the governor plans to immediately return to Albany to put the final touches on the speech he will deliver August 22 when he formally accepts the presidential nomination.

The governor and the late Democratic leader had been close friends since 1920.

This will be the second funeral Smith has attended since his nomination. The first was that of the 19-year-old son of John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee who was killed in an automobile accident in Maryland.

Awaits Formal Reply

Governor Smith today was awaiting with keen interest a formal reply from the Rev. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, New York, whom he challenged to debate after the clergyman had characterized him as the deadliest foe in America to moral progress.

Dr. Straton's suggestion that the debate take place in Madison Square Garden and that later they campaign through the south, debating Smith's political career, will be flatly rejected by the governer, according to his advisers. The executive will insist that Dr. Straton permit him to defend his stand on moral issues from the pul-

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 9.—Strangled to death, presumably by burglars the body of an aged and reputed wealthy widow, Mrs. Agnes Klosowski, 69, was found in bed at her home here early today.

The body had been bound with a heavy cord and a shopping bag was stuffed in the mouth, police said Mrs. Stella Volk a roomer, discovered the murder, she told police when she returned to the house shortly before 3 o'clock this morning. The house had been ransacked, bureau drawers scattered about and their contents thrown on the floors.

Hoover Revises Part Of Notification Speech Of New Hampshire Senator

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Aug. 9.—With his formal notification 48 hours away, Herbert Hoover today barred "mudslinging" from his campaign for the presidency.

The Republican nominee let it be known that he will not countenance any personalities in the campaign either against his Democratic rival, Governor Alfred E. Smith, or other prominent Democratic party leaders. He placed "mudslinging" under the same ban he recently put upon the "barnstorming" plans and "ballyhoo" programs, devised by his enthusiastic personal friends.

Moses To Arrive

The candidate was looking forward today to the arrival of Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, chairman of the notification committee. Senator Moses will deliver the notification address at the exercises here Saturday in Stanford Stadium. A copy of Moses' speech was sent the nominee some time ago and he returned it to the Senator with a number of suggestions, which materially changed its contents.

Moses will bring the revised speech with him. It was said the speech would be perfunctory in accordance with Mr. Hoover's wishes, and devoid of the "wisecracks" which illumined the Senator's address as permanent chairman at the Kansas City convention.

No Personalities

Hoover has made it clear to his associates and advisors that he will deal in no personalities in his speeches. It is his wish that the Republican party make an affirmative cam-

Florida Visitors In City Get Message Properties Damaged By Hurricane

That the hurricane which swept over Florida yesterday was of an unusually severe type and also covered a considerable area in its sweep through that state, is evidenced by the message received here by Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Grove of Fort Pierce, Fla., who recently motored here and are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Fulkerson of 1307 Delaware avenue.

The message, which was received last night, told of very extensive damage done to the Grove properties, located in rather widely separated sections of Fort Pierce.

Much Damage.

Their house boat was completely demolished, while the roof was taken from one of their houses. Another house belonging to them and located near the first, was also damaged. Both these houses are located in the suburban residential district of Fort Pierce.

The plate glass front of their storeroom property located in the business district of Fort Pierce, was demolished by the terrific storm. The entire front will have to be replaced.

Damage done throughout the Fort Pierce district as well as other sections in the line of the hurricane was very extensive and it will require vast sums of money to restore the properties to the condition in which they were previous to the hurricane.

TWO BUCK DEER SEEN ALONG COVERT ROAD

C. R. McCombs and C. R. Cover, while working in a field on the McCombs farm on the Covert road, Wednesday afternoon, noted two buck deer nearby. The deer seemed quite domesticated and remained around all afternoon. When the men left the field, late in the day, the deer were still to be seen.

Clashes With Smith

Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, New York, who has accepted the challenge of Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential nominee, for a public discussion between the two matters regarding Smith's candidacy which Straton included in a recent sermon from his pulpit. In his sermon Straton characterized Smith as "the deadliest foe in America of the forces of moral progress and true political wisdom." Smith, in a letter to Straton, asked he be allowed publicly to answer the minister's charges.

New Castle Consistory Picnic Draws Throng From Western Pennsylvania

Day's Program Carried Out Without Hitch—Even Weatherman Smiles

Just what the exact attendance at the picnic of the New Castle Consistory was on Wednesday, August 8, is problematical, but according to Manager Carl Shaner of Cascade park, whose business it is to estimate crowds, there was approximately 20,000 present at the picnic that stands out as the peak day in Cascade so far this year.

At 6 o'clock Wednesday evening the facilities of the park seemed taxed to capacity. The grove was full of diners and thousands ate their lunches out under the shade of the trees. The benches were full, the amusements seemed packed, and up in the automobile parking field the line of cars stretched back to the outside limits of the area.

Not a thing marred the day. The weather was perfect, the crowd was in good humor, the attractions were run off on scheduled time and everybody seemed to have a good time of it.

The committees in charge of the affair did their work well and from

Florida Storm Nearing Tampa; Damage Heavy

Estimate Is $5,000,000 For Damage Already Done By Hurricane

NEW WARNING IS ALSO ISSUED

Famous Citrus Belt Of Florida In Path Of Hurricane And Is Damaged

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 9.—South Central Florida and the West Coast were isolated today as the tropical disturbance that struck West Palm Beach and the East Coast on Tuesday and Wednesday hurled itself across the state toward the Gulf of Mexico.

Scores of towns in the rich citrus section were plunged in darkness last night when the 5 mile gale tore down power lines in an area of about 40 miles, from Winter Haven to Orlando.

Orlando In Path Of Storm

Winter Haven, Kissimmee, Orlando, Lake Wales and many other little towns were in the path of the storm, and the same damage that was done at Jupiter, West Palm Beach, Fort Pierce and other cities on the East Coast was done in the South Central section and the West Coast of the state.

Houses were unroofed, trees and shrubbery uprooted, windows broken, but the most damage was suffered by fruit growers and public utilities such as railroads and power and wire companies.

Nearing Tampa

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 9.—Centering over the rich citrus belt in the South Central part of the state after causing damage on the East Coast estimated at $5,000,000, the hurricane which has been ravaging Florida for the past two days rapidly neared Tampa and the Gulf Coast towns early today.

Rising winds of from forty to seventy miles per hour were reported from towns fifty miles east of Tampa. In that city gale warnings were issued and shipping was held to the harbor.

No loss of life had been reported from the storm centre early today but nearly all wire communication was down. It was feared, however, that the rich citrus orchards in the path of the tropical storm would be ruined.

Remove Debris

Meanwhile towns of the lower East Coast as far south as Palm Beach, engaged in removing the debris left in the wake of the hurricane, were warned by the weather bureau that another storm was sweeping in from the sea. This new disturbance was believed to be centering about 100 miles southwest of Porto Rico early this morning, and moving northwest or west northwest.

Indications were that the second storm would exceed its predecessor in intensity, the weather bureau reported. Last night, however, it was of but moderate intensity.

Damage Is Extensive

On days like these when even the trees seem to bend with the rays of the street, and the dazzling rays leave a chap in a daze as he tries to cope with the heat, when his nose is burned and his coat is wet, and his collar is wilted and frayed, the thing to do is to hunt a spot where a fellow can loll in the shade. Some grassy spot where it isn't hot, and the breeze fans a fellow's brow, oh these are the spots that I love to find and enjoy them, my friend and how. And its days like these that just sort of sieze a fellow with plenty to do, and make him wish for a shady nook, the weather is ninety-two.

Pennsy Company Seeks Permission To Run Bus Lines

Only One Protest To Application Of Pennsylvania General Transit Company

PLAN TO OPERATE IN 55 COUNTIES

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 9.—Only one protest was entered when the Public Service commission today heard the application of the Pennsylvania General Transit company, a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania railroad, to operate motor buses in 55 counties of the state.

Counsel for the Pennsylvania Bus association who protested granting a charter told the commission that the Pennsylvania company would drive independent operators from the roads and tend toward a monopoly of the highways.

Witnesses for the Pennsylvania company testified that the only bus line now contemplated was between Phoenixville and Frazer. An application by the Pennsylvania railroad to abandon passenger service between these points now is pending with the commission.

They also emphasized that the present application was for incorporation of the company and that the commission will have to review each individual application for bus service in any section of the state.

A similar application by the Pennsylvania Railroad as well as one by the Reading company were refused charters by former Governer Gifford Pinchot.

A renewed application by the Reading company recently was approved by Governor John S. Fisher.

State Highway Department Gets Over $52,000,000

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 9.—Total of the receipts of the Pennsylvania State highway for the fiscal year ending May 31, is $52,050,000, according to the department announcement today.

This amount included $28,000,000 from motor license fees, $20,750,000 state gasoline tax and $3,300,000 Federal aid. Following expenditures it is estimated that there will be at least $16,467,975 for road construction and repairing.

Some $2,910,000 has been set aside for the maintenance of the bureau of motor vehicles and $2,500,000 will go to the State Highway patrol.

the aerial truck, were taken to the new station.

From the old station, the last run was made Wednesday evening at 9:15, when the aerial truck answered a call from box 83. When the scene of the supposed blaze was reached, it was found that the alarm was faise. Someone saw smoke coming from a bakery, and had pulled the box.

More Efficient Service

"We are all happy to get into the new home," declared Chief Charles H. Lynn," although some of the older members of the department are prone to leave the East street house, where they have spent their entire lives in the service of the city. Yet, I feel that we will be more able to give efficient service from the South Jefferson street station than from the old East street house. Here the roadway is wider, and the trucks can get out on the street much more quickly."

The new signal system was thoroughly tested this morning and pronounced perfect by the fire chief. An unique feature of the system is that when a box is pulled, automatically the lights in the fire station flash on, and do not go out until a small trap is reset.

Again Chief Lynn wishes to remind the people of New Castle that when they have fires to report, not to call the police station. In the past, the police received quite a few calls, and because of the closeness of the police department to the old Central Fire station, it was but a matter of moments until the police could give the alarm to the firemen.

Now, however, it is different. Almost six city blocks separate the Central Fire station from the police department. The fire chief cautions all the citizens of New Castle that the fire telephones are numbers 7 and 266, while the police department phone is number 8.

When an alarm comes in from a box to the fire station, another new device automatically cuts the call number on a roll of paper, thus providing a further check on the box. In turn, this paper is rolled on another roll, thus keeping a permanent record of the calls.

FLORIDA STORM NEARING TAMPA DAMAGE HEAVY

East Coast for a stretch of 125 miles between Palm Beach and Titusville may exceed $5,000,000, it was conservatively estimated here.

The greatest damage was suffered by the public utility companies, when miles of wires were torn down by the gale. Leaving this territory without power and wire service for many hours. Telephone communication had been partially restored today.

Crops and young fruit trees suffered also, and scores of houses of light frame construction were unroofed in Fort Pierce, Vero Beach, Stuart, Melbourne and towns in that vicinity. Canal Point, Pahokii and places on Lake Okeechobee shore escaped with comparatively light damage.

No casualties were reported.

No casualties were reported from anywhere on the storm front.

Damage which may exceed $5,000,000 was done on the east coast Tuesday night when the storm swept an area of 200 miles. Hundreds of orange and grapefruit orchards were ruined in the vicinity of Vero Beach, Stuart and Fort Pierce, and damage to property and public utilities was heavy.

Tampa was isolated by the storm today and probably was in the teeth of it this morning.

Fort Pierce was hard hit by the storm, officials there estimating that property damage at $1,000,000, most of it in the business district. Newspapers at Fort Pierce and Vero Beach were forced to suspend until power service could be resumed.

Stuart had a momentary scare of a flood of the St. Lucie river, but the water began to recede last night. Citrus growers suffered heavily here and a number of homes were damaged. Damage here was estimated at $1,000,000.

Jupiter reported nearly 50 per cent of its buildings damaged. The torrential rains flooded the streets and ruined the citrus crop.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 9.—The tropical hurricane which lashed the east coast and south central portion of Florida is centered over the Peninsula today and is moving northwest about 75 miles north of Tampa with decreased intensity.

A. J. Mitchell, local forecaster, revealed there was little likelihood of the disturbance recurring and he predicted that it will enter the Gulf of Mexico some time today.

Tampa and the west coast and the central section of the state was still cut off from communication today.

Trouble Clouds Shadow Europe

Threat Of Hostilities In Balkan And Orient May Be Averted Without Serious Break

SOVIET HAND IS PLAINLY SEEN

(International News Service)

Two trouble spots, each containing the threat of hostilities, exist today—one in the Orient and the other in the Balkans.

Following the death of Stefan Raditch, leader of the Croatian Peasant Party in Jugoslavia, the movement for Croatian autonomy has gathered force and there are threats of civil war. The Jugoslav cabinet at Belgrade is considering a declaration of martial law throughout the whole kingdom. Government anxiety has been increased by discovery of a Communist plot in Croatia, showing that Moscow is taking an active hand in Jugoslav politics.

Italy Involved

The whole Balkansa may be affected by an outbreak. Italy is indirectly involved for two reasons. First because it was furious friction over a proposed treaty with Italy that led to the recent assasssinations in the Belgrade parliament when Raditch was fatally wounded and two others were killed; second, Italy has established a dominatting position in Albania against Jugoslavia's wishes.

In the Orient Japan has informed the Chinese Nationalists that the Japanese will never consent to Manchuria coming under Nationalist rule. Soviet Russia is supporting the Chinese Nationalists. The Nanking government has denounced the Japanese treaty but Tokio refused to accept abrogation. In the meantime Moscow is working to strengthen the Red faction of the Chinese Nationalist party.

Spectacular Stunt

Visitors to the picnic at Cascade Park on Wednesday, August 8th, were pleased with the unusual number of laugh producing stunts which were shown. These stunts were the work of the Stunt Committee headed by Wesley Davy.

The one stunt that probably drew the most attention was the airplane drop into Lake Cascade. Through the courtesy of D. Roy Bradford, a pilot flew above Cascade Park, and then as he flew over the lake a figure was seen to hurtle out of the ship.

No parachute, nothing to protect the passenger who had apparently been thrown bodily out of the plane. Down, down he dropped, and with a tearing of branches came to rest in a tree. The pilot had missed the lake with a dummy passenger.

Cutouts Lead To Seizure Of Beer

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 9.—Open cutouts on bootleggers trucks have resulted in the confiscation of a carload of alleged illegal beer and a truck.

Residents in the vicinity of Keifers, near here, whose slumbers have been disturbed by the loud exhausts of the trucks, notified Prohibition Agent Edward M. Ward that a box car was being loaded with beer for New York near their homes.

With several assistants, Ward arrived at the siding as the last kegs were being rolled into the car.

Two hundred and fifty half-barrels of beer, valued at $3,000, was seized with the truck and car.

...E USE OF OLD FIRE STATION

WITH the abandonment of the building used by the Central firemen, on East street, today, because they are moving into the fine new quarters on South Jefferson street, future use of the city owned property on East street becomes a problem for the city council.

Members of that body are silent as to the use to be made of the building, and largely because of one reason—they do not know. There are numerous uses that have been projected, but no decision has been reached.

Of all the suggestions that have been offerred it appears to us that the one to use the building as combined headquarters for the various welfare agencies of the city, has the most to recommend it. True it is, the city council has nothing to do with operation of these agencies, and it may be possible that the building could be rented for commercial purposes and some return secured financially, which would be more than that received by using it as welfare agency headquarters, but it's as broad as it's long. The people of New Castle support the welfare agencies, as well as pay the city taxes. If the annual cost of maintaining the necessary welfare agencies could be reduced by using this city owned building as headquarters for all of them, it would be an advantage.

Whether or not the project is feasible is one that the writer has not fully investigated. But it does appear that it should be thoroughly investigated by the welfare agencies and the members of the city council before any definite action is taken with regard to the building's permanent use in the future.

TELEPHONE SINNERS

HAVE you ever, in the course of a conversation on a telephone line, heard a funny little click now and then as though a receiver were being surreptitiously raised or lowered? So has Miss Marjorie Sims of the University of Illinois.

"The average woman wastes a large part of her life visiting on the telephone," says Miss Sims. "Women should observe business hours as men do," she adds. And there are at least a few thousand overworked telephone operators in the country who will rise up and call her blessed for the remark.

In some communities the party line telephone serves as an illicit sort of newspaper. When the three rings that are supposed to summon only someone in the Jones household are sounded, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Smith and all the other neighbors, from the school house to the grocery, fly in immodest and unseemly haste to listen in.

There is no such community, we are proud to state, nearer than seven or eight countries away from here. It is a nice thing to realize that we are a little more careful about this form of eavesdropping than the folk upstate and the folk downstate. It gives us a superior feeling, enables us to face the minister on Sunday without blushing and gives us the assurance that our children are being brought up in the sort of homes of which they may well be proud.

PLANES IN FOREST FIRE FIGHTING

THE great day of aviation has arrived, and high are the hopes that soar with the airplane. The machine has performed marvelous feats, sailed over oceans, climbed to record altitudes, moved immense cargoes, given men hitherto unheard-of rates of motion. Therefore, there is a tendency to leap to conclusions about its adaptability to varied tasks.

For example, Minnesota newspapers at present are talking about the airplane as a vehicle for forest fire prevention. The impression seems general that use of planes will greatly facilitate the job.

Actual experiments indicate a somewhat limited utility of airplanes in this field. Canada has used hydroplanes successfully in transporting fire fighters over trackless and well-watered regions. Airplanes are costly to use for anything more than occasional emergencies. The United States Forest service, which has been able to borrow government ships from other federal departments, thus avoiding the prohibitive expense of rental, has received practical assistance from airmen operating in the National Forests of the West.

In the work of fire detection, foresters believe main reliance will continue to be placed on the look-out tower system. The small fire often smolders invisible for long periods at a time. Whereas it would be missed by an airplane whizzing overhead, the look-out in the tower, on duty all hours, spots it whenever a breeze fans it into flame. The look-out can examine every distant mist for the necessary length of time to determine whether it is or is not smoke. From reports of several look-outs the position of a fire can be plotted to a certainty. The stationary look-out has several advantages over the swiftly moving observer in the air.—The Saint Paul Pioneer Press.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 7:06. Sun rises tomorrow 5:05.

Between an aching heart and an aching tooth I'd rather have an ingrowing toe nail.

We heard a nice chap say yesterday that he only takes The News to get to read this column and today some bird told us he never read worse stuff so there you are. We don't care just so they all read it.

The defendant in police court is sunk who has no one to bail him out.

Many deaths from the heat, drowning and by automobile accidents took place all over the country during the past week or so. A lot of this kind of stuff can be avoided by just a little care on the part of all the people. The death toll in this country is getting terrible—we mean from accidents, etc.

MUCH MONEY FOREVER LOST

If you happen to tear a $10 bill Uncle Sam's treasury will give you a brand new bill for it if you send all the pieces. But if your $10 bill is blown into the fire, you are $10 short. Yet Uncle Sam once made allowance for burned up money. The government calculated that $1,000,000 of United States notes was destroyed in the great Chicago fire of 1871, and deducted this amount from the estimate of our total stock of money. It also calculated that $32,000 of small currency was destroyed in the Chicago fire, and allowed for that. Also there is $13,218,00.45 of small change, which has totally disappeared, treasury officials calculate. The people have lost or destroyed it.

A "Going in Debt Week" at least wouldn't need a proclamation by the mayor to make it successful.

We are warned not to run after street cars or anything else on hot days. We won't.

You can't keep up with the ladies As soon as the men recovered from their emnity to the strap watch the women began to pin 'em on their ankles.

Speaking about tall dahlas we have some in our garden that are not tall and they haven't any flowers on them either.

The fellow without personality has to depend upon his frat pin to get by.

During the last Community Chest drive many five and ten dollar pledges were made and most of them have not had a cent paid on them. We have always contended that all pledges of ten dollars or under should be cash when solicited. The fact that most of them are not being collected is good proof of the wisdom of that. Even if it was not paid when solicited the bookkeeping would be saned later.

Patou, French couturier, says the present styles of women's dress must go, that longer skirts are to be the vogue and that the boyish lines are out. He has gone back to the 80's to get frills, and even uses them when they give the effect of a bustle. We hope Patou hasn't put too much money into that idea. Our conviction is that, if he has, he's likely to go broke.

We hear that this country is making so much educational progress that it becomes an increasing wonder where all the ignorance comes from. It may be that it comes from the intelligentsia. We are not claiming to be educated understand.

An organization known as "The Stand Owners Association" is going to make an effort to clean up the roadside eating stands in Pennsylvania. The name sounds as if they were going to eliminate many of them and raise prices in what are left. Those organizations as a rule have some object in view and it isn't always in the interests of the dear peepul.

We notice where Mr. Coney's Island near New York is doing a great business this year, more than a million people a day are going there. The ocean is not big enough there to hold the crowd. It's a fine place if one has no where else to go on a hot day.

"We are," observes a cynic "but flesh and bone." Ah, yes. Proud flesh, some of us cynics and the less said about the bone, the better.

Speaking about general anatomical composition it's strange, isn't it, how feminine flesh and blood envies her sister's skin and bone.

Ordinary precautions are all right of course, but we know one man so careful that he won't sit near the loud speaker if he suspects the person talking into the mike has a cold.

A used radio is about in the same class as a used autombile when it comes to selling it. You can hardly get the first payment on a new radio on what you get for a perfectly good used one.

A United States senator from a western state has denounced both the Republican and Democratic platforms. We hope enough United States senators are elected by the Republicans this fall to have a majority so the few who are against everything, including this country, will get the setback they so richly deserve.

A New York state man has secured a permit from Pennsylvania to roll a barrel over the roads of this state. He is going to roll the barrel from Buffalo to Miami and the only conditions put on his rolling in Pennsylvania is that he does not have any intoxicating liquor in it and does not interfere with traffic. Just think of rolling a barrell over the roads these days with the kind of drivers there are on the highways. Oh wham de doodle wham.

But kids just want an ice cream cone.

John Moody studies and thanks, and predicts five more years at least of rising values and prosperity. "The old breeders of financial panic that brought on the crisis of 1893, 1903 and 1907 and disappeared.

We are living in a new kind of America, with a new kind of prosperity. "America's world of today is not the world of 20 years ago" says Mr. Moody.

If you were feeling gloomy cheer up.

Many are prosperous, NOT all. Barney Deboka, having vainly hunted a job stood at a restaurant window watching a woman turning butter cakes. He fell in a faint and doctors are treating him for starvation.

Great is the power of civilization training a man so well that he stands watching food until he drops of hunger rather than steal. Man is a teachable animal.

George Kojac of New York established a new world's record for swimming 100 meters backstroke. One more American winner not a "Nordic."

Kojac's time was 1 minute 9 4-5 seconds.

A shark swims two miles in one minute. While he was learning to swim so fast man was learning to think. Men catch sharks often. Sharks rarely catch men.

With automobiles men easily outrun the fastest land animals. Flying machines go faster than any bird. But on water ideal speed element, 100 per cent ballbearing, man has not been abel to equal even comparatively slow fishes. A new idea is needed there.

Now the camara analyzing a lightning stroke for engineers of the General Electric company shows that lightning goes about its business swiftly.

LIVE DANGEROUSLY

Nietzsche tells us, "Live dangerously. Build your house on the side of a volcano."

There are two kinds of people. The ideal of one kind is peace, quiet, and a home with geraniums in the front yard.

There are those who idealize a a peaceful existence and there are those who are never happy except in engaging in adventure.

Many people want thrills. Some people are born explorers and pioneers, and some seek settled and civilized communities.

Amelia Earhart, who some time ago flew across the Atlantic, was never happy unless expressing herself in adventure.

Few know the joys of courage except the courageous. Their ambition is to die in "the doubtful ridges of the battle."

Miss Earhart was a settlement worker, but hardly could endure settling.

She thus describes her outlook on life::

"Courage is the price that life exacts for granting peace.
The soul that knows it not,
Knows no release from little things;

Knows not the livid loneliness of fear,
Nor mountain heights where bitter
joy can hear,
The sound of wings.

How can life grant us boon of living,
compensate,
For dull gray ugliness and pregnant
hate,
Unless we dare

The soul's dominion? Each time we make a choice we pay,
With courage to behold resistless day,
And count it fair."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

NEW "PERMANENT WAYS."

Back in the "Roaring Nineties" I used to look back from the end of a railway train at the "Permanent Way" and marvel at the magnificence of the ballasted roadbed, the perfection of the great curve, the strength of the wide flung bridge over yawning chasm, and the achievement of tunneling the solid mountain. I might have then noticed, along the Right of Way, a rough, dusty and stoney highway upon which a horse drawn vehicle was making slow progress.

Today the "Permanent Ways" of the Railways of America are yet more wonderful than they were thirty years ago, but there parallels them other "Permanent Ways" for the automobile, more marvelous, if possible, than the Railways.

The States, Counties, Cities and even the Federal Government are building more miles of these Cement and Brick Ways than are the Railroads building steel roads. One of the wonders of the Motor Highways of America is in the Zion National Park of Utah.

The National Park Service, Department of the Interior, announced July 25, that the mile-long tunnel which is being driven through the sandstone walls of Zion Canyon, is nearing completion.

The contractors are advancing this tunnel at the rate of 37 feet per day. It is now about 80 per cent completed and is expected to be finished in another month.

The tunnel is part of the Zion-Mt. Carmel Highway which the Bureau of Public Roads is building for the National Park Service. A mile of this tunneling through solid sandstone seems like a difficult undertaking but when it is finished it will be followed by further work of the same sort on this same highway which in the end will bring this kind of construction up to about five miles.

In addition to the boring of the tunnels, galleries are opened up every 1,000 feet or so which makes it possible for travelers on this highway to look out into the canyon which is one of the choicest bits of scenery in the West.

And what, forty years from now, will be the Air Highways?

SWALLOWS

At Pointe Aux Barques the swallows nest
In cliffs above the lake,
Like rows of men for evening dressed
A handsome sight they make.
Think I no tailor could design.
A suit for me that's half so fine.

My fitter boasts his skill,
As if it perfect were.
But faults crop out and always will
To prove that humans err.
And yet those swallows on a wire
Display a most correct attire.

Who told the swallow what to wear?
Who shaped that coat and vest?
Who set them winging throughthe air
Always so trimly dressed?
Think you that by a mortal mind
A thing so perfect was designed?

If God had left it unto man
To dress the swallows there
Try to imagine if you can
The suits they'd have to wear.
Contrast the raiment that's divine.
With all the barbs which men design!

NATIONAL ANTHEM CONTEST

The Star Spangled Banner is not without its champions, numerous and earnest, whenever some one comes along with a proposal to find a new national anthem. Even critics most frank in conceding the defects of the old song that has stirred American hearts for a century or more, are not inclined to hope that anything better will come out of prize competitions such as Mrs. Brooks-Aten of New York plans in the name of the Brooks-Bright Foundation.

Writing somewhat facetiously on the subject, the NEW WORK WORLD says: "Mrs. Florence Brooks-Aten of our own fair city, who is offering $6000 for a new national anthem, of course has our respect. Almost anybody who was willing to back an idea with $6000 would have our respect. Yet she also has our disapproval. What, we feel in duty bound to ask, is the matter with the national anthem we have already?"

This challenging question is asked or inferred by many other newspapers. The KANSAS CITY STAR hopes no new national anthem will be produced, observing: "Some time, perhaps, immortal words and music may combine to give us a patriotic and nationalistic song, noble enough to be called an anthem, and popular enough to be identified as such by universal use and consent, but it will not be by the means now suggested. National anthems do not come out of prize competitions, but out of the crucible of national struggles, sufferings, aspirations and triumphs."

In similar vein, the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS declares that "the patriot-poet-musician must have an inspiration other than dollars to bring forth an anthem worthy of such a nation. Nor," adds the Virginia editor, "is there any assurance that the nation at large will look with favor on the choice that may come out of this competition. It takes more even than an act of congress to adopt a national anthem. It must be adopted by and be an expression of the heart of the people."

The SAN ANTONIO EVENING NEWS wonders: "Do the promoters seriously expect this competition will yield a song worthy to supplant 'The Star Spangled Banner?' Certainly the results of similar past enterprises have not been such as to encourage that expectation," the News holds, as it points out that "undoubtedly much of the present national anthem's popularity is due to the dramatic circumstances under which it was composed. A substitute—if written—not only must excel in lyric beauty, but must stir the popular imagination. That is asking much," concludes this paper.

Even though a winning song of high quality may be produced, the ALBANY EVENING NEWS believes "The Star Spangled Banner" will never be abandoned. "It has served more than a century," says The Evening News. "It has stirred the spirit of America for 100 years and more. However faulty it may be, no song can take its place. America will not discard the anthem that has made its history. But let the contest go on, let us see if we can't have some good American songs."

While the CHAMPAIGN NEWS-GAZETTE extends to the promoters its "best wishes," it contends that "the odds are about 5000 to one that after she gets her prize song, the country won't accept it." The BUTTE MINER refuses to "'stand' for any substitute" and the LANSING STATE JOURNAL asks: "Suppose splendid sentiment, expressed in meter that would lend itself to spontaneous song, were produced and set to equally good music—would that fact give us an anthem?" The Journal then proceeds to answer its own question, saying: "Anthems are born of occasions and of long, historic use. If a new, great, enduring popular anthem can be given the nation, let it be done; but it will not displace 'The Star Spangled Banner' in a day, and it may never come into general acceptance until associated with some great national feeling or occasion."

Says the NEW LONDON EVENING DAY: "The principal virtue of the existing song is that it stirs you up.

When you hear it, you just distinctively feel that this is a pretty good country, and one well worth fighting for. Any new song might do as much," that paper acknowledges, but it believes "it would take a deal of training to make us feel the weight of it."

While admitting that few persons know many of the words of the song, the SEATTLE DAILY TIMES notes that "The American people at least know the old tune well enough to stand before more than a half dozen bars have been played, and they will be slow to toss aside such a heritage for the doubtful task of learning another all over again."

The DETROIT NEWS considers the present anthem "bound up with patriotic traditions" and declares that "it thinks of national anthems as compositions written in blood with pens of iron." However, it continues, "but all this and much else considered, still it seems a good use to make of $6000."

Of such songs as "The Star Spangled Banner," the ANN ARBOR DAILY NEWS declares, "Somehow, somewhere, genius plants a seed and it blooms in human favor." A new national anthem must come, says the PORTSMOUTH DAILY TIMES, "white hot, not only from the brain but from the heart." That the winning anthem will be "Mrs. Brooks-Aten's national anthem alone" is the prediction of the ALLENTOWN MORNING CALL.

Here's Real Inside Dope On Why Dancers Enjoy Waltzing On Torrid Night

After all pleasure is just a change in your work. Outside of sleeping under an apple tree there are few pleasures which do not mean work, and the more work it is, the more fun it is for the well known and justly famous boys and girls of Uncle Sam. (Now there's a line for you).

Which brings us up to the nub of this article, the heart of it so to speak, the very core of the apple, if you like apples or apple sauce.

Still coming closer to the point if there is to be any point to a hot weather article, this one concerns dancing. Plain, fancy or otherwise, fox trotting, waltzing or just dancing.

Why any body wants to dance on nights like we've been having is one for the book, but there's a better one than that, and it is why does any editor want an article on dancing when the thermometer is doing its level best to break the tube.

Anyhow and by the same sign, he wanted it, and what editors want they get once in a while and this is where the editor of this great family newspaper (rates upon application) gets his.

To begin with dancing in this weather isn't a sport it's a punishment. If it were free nobody would want it, but charge a fellow for something and he'll come back for more.

Why anybody with all their commies would shuffle around a crowded dance floor these evenings with the persweat soaking the stretch out of his garters nobody knows but its done. It proves something or other but nobody knows what it is.

Take any night you can think of except Sunday and leave that one alone. You'll find them on the dance floor gyrating around with half nelsons on each other, keep step to the music and between each beat of the drum mopping their brow with handkerchiefs.

If women dressed today the way they did when eggs were ten cents a dozen, the hospitals would be full of heat cases. As it is the women don't have enough on to wrap up a pound of cheese and this accounts for their willingness to step out onto the floor with one of the male of the species and do a hot dance (the wod is used literally, thank you).

Honestly, dancing this weather is just another form of doing a turn on a big mill. Instead of throwing iron around a fellow has to haul a young lady around and the only difference is that iron is dead weight and women are live weight. At least you want a live one if you're dancing.

Glancing back over this masterpiece brings the conclusionu that this has gone far enough, too far perhaps. The subject was dancing in hot weather. Well why not? Its being done, it proves something, and anyhow who cares?

Suspect In Slaying Of Hughey McLoon Is Arrested In Camden

Detain Man On Extortion Charge After Intimidating Camden Banker

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 9.—Camden police today arrested Bernard Cannon, Philadelphia, and held him in $6,000 bond on an extortion charge after he was alleged to have threatened the life of a local banker with the same fate meted out to Hughey McLoon, former Athletics mascot, in Philadelphia early today. McLoon was shot to death.

Cannon was taken into custody after police said he approached Eugene A. Sachs, head of an investment house, and exclaimed: "Well, we got Hughey McLoon today—you had better look out."

Philadelphia murder squad detectives questioned Cannon regarding the shooting of McLoon and the wounding of his two companions in Philadelphia today.

Jiggs To Receive Many Suggestions From New Castle

Speaking of corned beef and cabbage, or were we?

Anyway if we had been speaking of it how do you like yours? There is a difference in its preparation of course. To the uninitiated, corned beef and cabbage is just corned beef and cabbage but to the connoisseur (I hope that's spelled right) no two portions of corned beef and cabbage are the same.

They differ in quality and fragrance just as two stars differ in their glory or two cheeses differ in their smell. Anybody can take a chunk of corned beef and boil it with cabbage, certainly but what have yau? What did Lincoln say about coned beef and cabbage? You know what he said.

Now then having settled that point the thing is this, The News and George McManus and a breathless world including Jiggs and Maggie would like to have your favorite recipe for corned beef and cabbage in addition to a two hundred word letter or what you think of Jiggs and Maggie.

Mr. McManus s offering some rare prizes for the best recipes and letters and if you're not doing anything this evening sit down and write yours out and send it in to The News.

Russia has its caviar, Italy has its spaghetti but here in America we have corned beef and cabbage. And somewhere, ah somewhere, there is a recipe laying around in a bureau drawer that will win the first prize for the preparation of this delectable morsel.

Lets have it, tout de suite, pronto and in a hurry.

Target Practice For 108th Artillery

(International News Service)

TOBYHANNA, Pa., Aug. 9.—Target practice with the 155 millimeter howitzers occupied the attention of members of the 108th crack field artillery again today.

Roused at dawn the three battalions comprising the regiment rushed to the three ranges by trucks and began firing the heavy vannons again for the second day in succession. Hundreds of motorists parked along the firing range when sound of the heavy firing began and eagerly watched the gun crews at work. Guards were forced to keep all trespassers from the firing area.

The howitzers were left in place last night with guards on duty to watch for the rocket flares conveying the message of "open fire." none was given, however, last night and the gun crews slept undisturbed.

About 400 rounds of ammunition was fired by the various batteries today. Even the new officers directing actual firing for the first time have scored well, many direct hits being recorded. All the targets are out of sight and must be found by several shots to get the range while observation officers report where the shells land until the range is secured.

Patent Granted To Koppel Men

Patentable Features On Dump Car Are Granted To Local Inventors

By GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of The News.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 9.—Patents have been granted by the United States patent office to Alfred C. Schmohl of Beaver Falls and William L. Burner of Koppel on their joint application of June 29, 1926, and to Charles F. Motz of Monaca on his application of October 30, 1926.

The Schmohl-Burner patent, part interest in which has been assigned to the Koppel Industrial Car & Equipment company of Pittsburgh, carried 14 claims which were allowed as patentable features on a dump car.

It consists of an underframe, a body tiltably mounted on this underframe, a door to the body which moves when the mechanism is tilted, means for controlling the opening and closing of the door, a member pivotally connected with the body to cooperate with the door, and a connection between these members to maintain the second in its operative position.

The Motz apparatus, part interest in which has been assigned to the Phoenix Glass company of Monaca is for sand blasting. Six claims were held to be patentable. A valve closeable upon revolution of a gear wheel and movement of a shaft so as to permit opening of the valve are among the innovations of the apparatus which also includes glass-cutting standard equipment.

to give the holders of old-fashioned ideas occasion for thought.

Women are in business, stores and offices, women have invaded the professions and now a woman has flown across the Atlantic.

Curiously enough her exploit was founded upon strict scientific calculations. The motor was carefully inspected and prepared. Every device for rendering flying safe was adopted. The most expert pilot and mechanician were employed.

Mr. Elmer, a former naval aviation officer, was in charge of the preparations and he fitted the plane with the last word in flying, navigating and radio equipment in preparation for the flight. The plane was built at the famous Fokker plant in Holland. Pontoons were fitted to it to make it a seaplane, and it carried instruments arranged to the best advantage.

Mr. Elmer said, "I think the Friendship was the safest and best equipped airplane ever to attempt an ocean flight."

All of which goes to show that an important part of luck is not only courage but proper preparation.

Station KDKA Pittsburgh To Pioneer With Idea Of Sending Movies Over Radio

FIRST TEST PROVES HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

By BURL A. ELY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 9.—Tune in on the latest movie thriller in your own home.

Within the next few weeks Station KDKA, Pittsburgh's pioneer radio station, is to begin the first general broadcasting of motion pictures to the public following a demonstration here in which high officials of the radio industry witnessed the world's first demonstration of "radio movies."

Announcement to this affect was made by H. P. Davis, vice-president of the Westinghouse Electric Company under whose auspices the revolutionary invention was demonstrated to officials of the Radio Corporation of America, The National Broadcasting Company, R. C. A. Photophone, General Electric and Television Companies.

KDKA's hope in broadcasting these movies is that amateur radio fans will develop and experiment with the idea, build their own sets and prove the practicability of popular usage.

In the demonstration before radio's leaders here, series of action films were run off on a transmitting apparatus and carried through the air to a receiving apparatus where they were reproduced. Although the reproduction was imperfect, the scenes reproduced were recognizable and led the radio officials to hail it with enthusiasm.

Nunn Is Winner By Close Score

June Handicap At Field Club Course Is Ended With Nunn Victorious

In one of the most interesting contests of the season at the golf course of the New Castle Field club, William M. Nunn, veteran of the course and club and also former champion, and John McIlwraith played the final of what is known as the June Handicap, on Wednesday afternoon.

While the match finally went to Nunn at the seventeenth hole with a score of two up and one to go, McIlwraith, who played in the best form of the year and exhibited golfing ability of an unusual character, was a real contender for the honors of the tournament and only the years of experience of Nunn on the course and in championship competitions enabled him to win.

McIlwraith showed his best form at the twelfth, thirteenth and sixteenth holes, making a birdie at each, or the hole in one less than par in each instance. It was this rare playing that came within an ace of winning the match for him. Much credit is due him for his masterful playing and the form displayed at all times during the contest.

In the first nine holes, Nunn made it in 36 as compared to 47 for McIlwraith. This was an advantage of 11 strokes for Nunn. In spite of this advantage, McIlwraith by his great playing in the second nine holes, almost compelled Nunn to give way to him in the winning of the tournament.

By reason of their regular handicaps, Nunn was required to give McIlwraith the advantage of seven strokes. Nunn had to go the limit in overcoming this and the wonderful performance of McIlwraith in the second nine.

McIlwraith's form showed itself in the long and difficult No. 10 hole, which he made 4. At the No. 11 hole, McIlwraith lost some ground, when he took six to make it to four for Nunn. The No. 12 hole, however, proved a benefit for McIlwraith, who made it in three strokes or one less than par. He repeated at the No. 13 hole, doing it in two as compared with a par of 3. Nunn was now 2 up. The No. 14 hole went to Nunn, who made it in 4 strokes to five for McIlwraith.

At No. 15 hole, McIlwraith took it in five to six strokes for Nunn. They halved this hole. It was at hole No. 16, that both men played in excellent form and Nunn lost the hole, because McIlwraith had a stroke on him. Both made a birdie at this hole, doing it in four, one less than par. To lose the hole as did Nunn is extremely rare and shows the closeness of the competition.

It was at hole No. 17 that McIlwraith lost the tournament. He went into the ditch and required five strokes, while Nunn took it in four strokes. This gave Nunn the competition in two up and one to go.

Both made the final or No. 18 hole in five, making the strokes for the second nine Nunn 38 and McIlwraith 40. The contest attracted considerable attention while in progress.

Fenders Damaged In Auto Accident

Only one traffic accident was reported to the New Castle police department Wednesday afternoon and evening, the reports reveal.

J. N. Thomas of Boston avenue, states that while he was driving east on Sankey street Wednesday evening, at a place where the roadway is washed out, he met another machine, driven by Albert Boughter of R. F. D. 1. He stopped to let Mr. Boughter's car through, and in passing, both fenders were scraped.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt found the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. He tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 96 per cent. and now it is sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from McKee's Kut Rate Store, Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc. today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you, or costs you nothing.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

INTO THE BLACK BAG

"Poor Mrs. Elegant Tinamou! Her troubles were all over now. What a shame she had never learned to go straight! If she had, she need not have lain there on the ground, wounded! What a good looking bird Mrs. Tinamou was! How her poor mate would miss her! How sad that the eggs she had laid would never hatch because no longer would a loving mother hover over them, keep them warm, protect them from danger!

"As we Bobolinks were mourning over Mrs. Tinamou we heard a sound. Looking up quickly we spied the man on horseback. He was coming our way. Unlucky Mrs. Tinamou had warned us not to be caught by her side lest something dreadful happen to us. But curiosity was almost as strong as fear. What was the man going to do? What was he coming back for? We determined not to fly out of sight until we found out, but we had no notion to stay within his arm's reach. So up into the air we rose and hovered high over the head of the human on horseback.

"Can you guess what that man did? No? Well, he picked up poor Mrs. Tinamou and opened a big black bag that hung on his saddle. The next thing he did was to drop Mrs. Tinamou into the black bag and close it tightly. But he was not quick enough. Mrs. Bobolink and I glimpsed the feathery heads of several other birds that just looked like Mrs. Tinamou. The poor lady bird who had warned us found comrades in that bag all bound for the same place she was going. There was just one thing to think. Evidently all the foolish Tinamous lost their heads and ran in circles when in danger!

"There was no longer any reason for us Bobolinks to linger in a spot where such dreadful things could happen, so off we flew. Before long we met Mr. Tinamou—we guessed it was he for he seemed to be looking for somebody. We told the poor husband what had become of his wife, and continued on our way.

"We reached the seashore just as the sun was setting—its bright rays making a path of gold across the waters. On the farther side of that path of gold lay our country. How glad we would be to reach home again. As we thought of the clover in our own home field, wife wiped a tear from her eye with her wing and I sniffed. We were growing homesick.

"'What do you say, wife?" asked I. 'Shall we set out on the golden way? The sun is still high and we shall have flown far before the last rays have faded. Then the moon will rise and its silver beams will light us on our journey?' But the wife shook her head.

"'I want to go home as much as you do,' said she, 'But I am too tired to start tonight. How beautiful it is, and how quiet. Let's camp here for the night. After all we may never come this way again and there's no use hurrying. Husband, look! Whom do I see? A bird! He walks this way! Isn't he behaving queerly? What's he doing? Let's fly over and ask him'."

The elderly couple obviously from the outlying sections were taking their first ride in a tram and as the car proceeded along the streets of London they seemed to become very much disturbed.

Only Four Cities Pay Their Mayors Maximum Salary Allowed By Law

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 9.—Only four of the 41 third-class cities in Pennsylvania pay the maximum salary allowed for the mayor of such cities, according to a salary survey just completed by the bureau of municipalities of the Pennsylvania De-Department of Internal Affairs. The maximum salary permitted by law is $5,250 per annum and mayors of Erie, Allentown, Wilkes-Barre and Harrisburg are receiving that amount. In Bethlehem and Lancaster $5,000 is paid, while in Reading the salary is $4,800. The cities of Johnstown, Chester, York, McKeesport and Easton pay $3,500, while New Castle pays $3,600. A salary of $3,000 is paid in Altoona, the mayor of Williamsport is paid $2,500 and Butler's mayor receives $2,000. Uniontown pays $2,400, while Hazleton, Pottsville and Coatesville have fixed the salary at $1,800. The lowest salaries are paid in Titusville, Monongahela, Franklin and Connellsville. In these cities the salary is $500, the minimum permitted under the third-class city act. Salaries paid in the other cities range from $500 to $1,500.

Councilmanic Pay

Members of council in Erie, Allentown, Wilkes-Barre and Harrisburg likewise receive the maximum of $4,500 allowed by law. The minimum, $300, is paid in Franklin, DuBois, Monongahela, Lock Haven and Titusville. Reading pays $4,200 to councilmen in that city and Lancaster councilmen receive $4,000. The pay in Bethlehem is $3,600 and in Johnstown, Altoona, Chester and McKeesport the salary of a city commissioner is $3,000. Two councilmen in New Castle receive $3,000, while the other two are paid $2,000. In Easton two members of council are paid $3,000, while the other two commissioners receive $2,100. Butler pays its commissioners $1,600, while the salaries of commissioners in all the other cities vary from $1,200 down to $450, two commissioners in Connellsville receiving that amount, while two others are in the $300 class.

Salary Plus

The survey covers salaries paid to all of the principal officials of all of the cities. The tabulations form the basis for some interesting studies on the rates of pay for persons who assist in governing third-class cities throughout Pennsylvania. Only a dozen city treasurers are paid fixed salaries without additional emoluments. In all of the other cities a salary is fixed for the city treasurer, but he is allowed commissions on collections. York and Lebanon pay only $50 a year to the city treasurer, but he is allowed commissions. In Johnstown a salary of $60 a year is allowed and commissions. The highest salary paid where commissions are not allowed is Altoona, the city treasurer there receiving $6,000. Allentown and Chester each pay $5,000 with no commissions permitted. The highest paid city treasurer, who is likewise given commissions on collections, is in Duquesne, where the salary alone is fixed at $2,400. The next highest is Lancaster, where a salary of $2,000 is fixed and commissions are allowed to increase this figure.

Special License Needed Says Attorney General

A decision rendered by the attorney general's office at Harrisburg dated July 31, 1928, states that the board of game commissioners cannot declare any sort of season for deer without visible antlers except as a special season with a fee of $2 in addition to the resident hunter's license. The same decision states that non-resident hunters cannot under any conditions secure a license for the killing of a deer without antlers. Extracts from the opinion rendered reads as follows:

"Your first inquiry is as to whether the special open season for killing female deer may cover the entire state.

"Section 505 of the act of May 14, 1925, P. L. 752, provide that:

"When . . . game animals . . . are materially destroying property, or otherwise becoming a nuisance, or the sexes are not balanced properly, or the natural food supply is insufficient . . . in any section . . . the board may . . . remove or have removed such animals . . . declare additional open seasons . . . for the killing of game . . . in any country or part thereof . . ."

"Section 511 . . . if satisfied that conditions warrant, may declare any section of the commonwealth open to the killing of deer without visible antlers . . . by residents of the commonwealth during a special season of such length as the board may deem advisable, either prior to or following the regular open season . . . '

"If the power is conferred upon the board to open for killing of deer 'any section' of the state, it is vested with authority to open all sections. Had it been intended that some sections or some counties only should be opened, it readily could have so delegated the authority.

Brief Deductions.

"These abstracts from the several sections are quite simple and require no special explanation or interpretation. We, therefore, briefly deduce the following: That for the special open season declared by the board, a special license is required, which said license is procurable only from the board at Harrisburg and for which the sum of two dollars is charged. That such special deer licenses shall be issued only in such number for each county or township as the board may deem advisable, and that the special open season license is not a roving license, good in all parts of the state, but is confined or restricted to killing of deer in the county or township, designated by the board and stated in the license, and confines the licensee to killing of a single deer in a season. In this construction we have made answer to inquiry (c)..

Very truly yours,

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
James W. Shull (signed)
Deputy Attorney General."

In order to remove as many deer as possible and at the same time to give every hunter equal opportunity of getting a deer, the game commission up to the present time had planned and decided upon a season on deer without visible antlers without any special fee in the belief that such a season not would be a special season but merely a reversal of the sexes in the regular deer season in accordance with the statute concerning the powers of the board, which permits them to regulate and bag limits according to the statue of the game. The decision of the attorney general's department, however, makes it mandatory that a special season be declared and an additional fee charged.

Many Should Be Removed.

The board firmly believes that it is imperative that many deer be removed during the coming season. In regulating the kill of deer and in determining the number of sportsmen who will hunt in each county, the board has decided to issue the special licenses in each county, in proportion to the number of legal bucks killed in the 1927 hunting season. Experience of the board during the past five years in issuing special licenses has shown that it requires six licenses to kill one deer without visible antlers, even in the centers of the greatest abundance of these animals. Bucks were killed in 54 counties last season and in all of these counties an incorrect ratio between the sexes exist. The licenses will be issued according to the number of female deer which should be removed.

In spite of the remarkably large kill of bucks during the past few years, the number of legal deer taken during 1927 was twice as large as in 1925, with 20,000 less licenses issued. It stands to reason that in view of their protection since 1907 female deer have become exceedingly abundant so that drastic measures are necessary. The board feels that the present method of handling the special season will correct overcrowding problems, will bring about a proper balance of the sexes, and will prevent the killing of too many deer in sections where they are not as yet too numerous.

The board believes that unless the sportsmen cooperate in removing a large number of does this season it can be but a short time until deer in some sections will be outlawed as game. The handling of this problem demands that sportsmen forget sentimental notices about a female deer and approach the matter of saving their game for future years in a matter-of- fact and business-like way.

Use Fire Hydrant To Provide Shower On Ray Street

Hot weather and a bursting thermometer holds no terrors for the kiddies in the vicinity of the No. 4 fire station on Ray street. The last few hot days, Captain John Clark has turned on the fire plug at the street and with a rack for a shower the neighborhood kiddoes have been having a circus.

They all attire in full bathing regalia and a cool afternoon is spent with the envy of witnessing adults who would like to join the crowd.

The attraction is not without its drawbacks however. Not a day passes that there are not clamors for the shower, whether the weather justifies it or not.

Liquor Violator Paroled To Harvest

(International News Service)

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Aug. 9. — George Seneko, of near Schwenkville, who was sentenced to four months in jail after pleading guilty on June 8 to a charge of illegally possessing liquor, today was paroled so that he could harvest the crops on his farm.

At a hearing the court was informed that Seneko's wife was required to milk 12 cows each day, in addition to caring for three children. The court was also told that many acres of corn, wheat and rye were uncared for and that unless they were harvested within the next few weeks the crops would be a total loss. The court granted the parole.

SAYS TEN HERBS TONED UP BADLY RUN-DOWN SYSTEM

Volant Elderly Man's Stomach, Liver, Kidneys And Bowels Benefited.

While Ten Herbs is a splendid to... for men and women of all ages —and also children, who are somewhat past the infancy stage—this new herbal compound is especially beneficial to persons of advanced age.

MR. FRANK McWILLIAMS

Those who feel the toll of years—who are weak and run-down, and whose stomach, liver, kidneys or bowels seem to be slowing up, should seek relief at once by using Ten Herbs. Many elderly persons throughout this section have been restored to long-sought health and strength by using this medicine, according to reports received by the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily demonstrating this successful preparation.

"The improvement Ten Herbs made in my condition is remarkable," was the recent statement of Mr. Frank McWilliams, of Volant, Pa., (near New Castle), to the Ten Herbs Man. "For some time my system had been badly run-down, causing me to feel miserable," continued Mr. McWilliams, who is 63 years of age, and janitor of a school. "Food did not agree with me, and my liver was badly disordered. I was so badly constipated that I had to be continually taking a laxative. My kidneys did not function properly with the result that my system seemed to be filled with poisons, and I began to get worse right along.

"After taking Ten Herbs, my appetite is much better, and I can eat without having pains afterwards. My liver is active again, and my bowels have been regulated. My kidneys are functioning properly, and the poisons seem to have been eliminated from my system. I am pleased to recommend Ten Herbs to anyone suffering as I was."

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. He will gladly answer any questions pertaining to this preparation.

Ray St. Firemen Have Beauty Spot

Men at the No. 4 fire station which is located on Ray street have been laboring all spring and the results of their labors is a beautiful flower garden.

Previously, a board fence ran along the side of the station and the lot was filled with thick orchard grass. It was not a pleasant sight. The station boys, at the suggestion of Captain Clark, all got together and tore out the fence and weeded the lot out.

Despite the fact that the season is late the garden has progressed rapidly with the diligent cultivation that it receives and the result is one of the prettiest gardens in the city.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.

Conference Men Have Swim Meet

Don McClure, Westminster '28, Accepts Position In Egypt; Other News

NEW WILMINGTON, Aug. 9.—Keeping pace with the spiritual activities of the New Wilmington Missionary Conference now in session here are the recreational pursuits. Beside the swimming meet which was held yesterday afternoon under the direction of Jack Hulme, the Conference young folk are talking part in tennis, volley ball, and mush ball tournaments.

At present John Cummings is leading in the mens singles tennis tournament which is the high light of the recreational activities. It is probable that he will meet Don McClure in the finals of this tournament.

Tuesday evening Dr. Charles Watson, president of the American University of Cairo, delivered the main address in the Conference tabernacle. Tonight a play "The Color Line" will be given by the members of the Conference cabinet at the time of the regular evening meeting, and tomorrow evening, Dr. Mills J. Taylor and Dr. W. R. Sawhill will deliver the final addresses of this year's session.

It was announced here today by Donald McClure, graduate of Westminster college in the class of '23 and assistant manager of the Conference now in session here, that he had accepted a position as head of the Teachers Training department of the American Mission school at Omdurman, Egypt.

In his new position for which he will leave his Blairsville home the latter part of this month, Mr. McClure will spend three years. He will leave New York August 25 on the liner, The Leviathan.

Arriving at the port of Cherbourgh, France, Mr. McClure will reach his Egyptian destination by way of Paris, Genoa, Alexandria, and Cairo.

Professor J. George Lutz of Westminster, paid a short visit to the college town yesterday on his way to New York City. Mr. Lutz has been enjoying an automobile tour of the West.

Professor R. X. Graham, also of the Westminster college faculty has been in town several days, but expects to visit the East again before the opening of the fall semester.

Mr. B. Kaufman, his son, Lawrence, and Thomas Rogers arrived here on Tuesday after a trip through the lower part of Canada.

Only the flag pole remains to be affixed to the tower of the new college main building to make the exterior fully completed.

Big Ulcer All Healed

"Now I Can Walk" Says Mrs. Southcott

"Here is another letter that makes me proud," says Peterson. "One that I would rather have than a thousand dollars."

"It seems like a miracle, but it's true, every word of it.

I know it because I get similar letters almost every day from people who have used Peterson's ointment for old sores, eczema and piles.

"Is it any wonder I am proud?"

Dear Sirs:

"I was an untold sufferer from an old running sore and ulcer. I had tried most everything without any relief from pain. A friend told me of your wonderful ointment and the first box took away the pain that had not left me before in years, and after using just nine dollars worth of the salve I am cured. The ulcer was 9 inches by 6½ inches, is all healed and I can walk. Never, never will I be without Peterson's again.

"You may use this to recommend your ointment if you wish. I cannot say enough to praise it." Yours truly, Mrs. Albert Southcott, Lyndonville, N. Y. Generous box 35 cents.

Farmers Asked To Save Bird Refuges

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 9.—Officers of the State Game Commission today appealed to farmers to permit some cover to remain for game birds and animals during the late summer cleanup of weeds and brush.

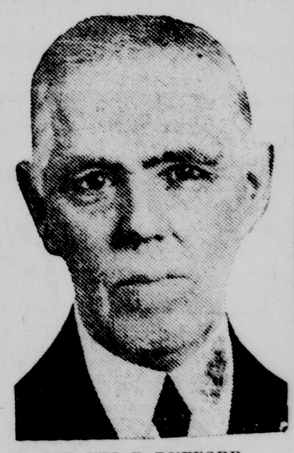
Earlier in the season the Commission offered the assistance of its game protectors in the protection of game bird nests uncovered by mowing machines and reapers. Usually, it was said, the nests of partridges and pheasants are abandoned if exposed by the cutting of hay or grain. Several instances were reported where game protectors obtained the eggs and placed them under hatching hens for incubation.

Although taking cognizance of the desire of the average farmer to keep his fields clear of brush and weeds, officers of the commission said that on most farms there are patches of brush which afford natural protection to birds and game and which do not detract from the value of the cleared fields if allowed to stand.

Partridges purchased by the commission average as much as $2.25 each and ring-necks $3.00. Protection of the eggs and young of these species would greatly reduce present expenditures for them, it was believed.

His Health Came Back Soon After He Got Konjola

Another New Castle Citizen Is Relieved Of That Tired, Worn-Out Feeling.



MR. WM. E. DUFFORD

Seavy Photo

Amazing reports are coming from men and women in all walks of life who have taken this new Konjola medicine and were delivered from their health troubles. This advanced remedy is a liquid compound. It contains juices from twenty-two roots and herbs, thus forming a medicine that cleanses the inner-system, restores healthy digestion, invigorates the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and strengthens the nerves. Konjola has also banished cases of rheumatism and neuritis for many New Castle people who have suffered for years.

The Konjola Man at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, is personally meeting throngs of people throughout each day and explaining Konjola. At the same time others already benefited by this famous remedy are offering some very unusual indorsements about it. A few days ago Mr. Wm. E. Dufford, 713 W. North street, this city, made the following statement:—

"Within a short space of three weeks, Konjola has completely restored my health," said Mr. Dufford, "and this is the first time in several years that I have been entirely out of misery.

"My health in general was getting worse during the past year and it really had me worried, especially since I was unable to find a remedy to help me. I would wake up in the morning with a headache and right after eating I would feel sick at the stomach. My liver was dull and inactive and this made me sluggish and drowsy most of the time. I had no pep or energy and by the time I retired at night I was so tired and worn out that I felt that I would never wake up. But still I never got a good night's rest. My kidneys were in such a disordered condition that I was forced to rise several times during the night and this kept me from going sound to sleep. I tried different remedies for relief, but nothing seemed to help me and I was becoming very discouraged.

"Then a friend of mine recommended that I try Konjola. It turned out to be just what I needed to build me up. The first few doses settled my stomach and ended the half-sick feeling that came over me after eating. By the end of the first week I could tell it was helping my kidneys because I only had to get up once or twice during the night. Now, the night risings have stopped altogether and my kidneys are in perfect condition. This medicine also restored my liver to more normal action and took away that tired, sluggish feeling that hung over me all the time. Since I have finished the treatment, I have a better appetite, enjoy sound, peaceful sleep at night and have plenty of pep and energy the next morning. I can certainly recommend this medicine to anyone, because I know what it will do."

The Konjola Man is at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

G. O. P. Manager Ruffled By White's Stabs At Al

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and New Castle News.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—When Editor William Allen White of the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette, sailing for Europe the other day, announced that he hoped he wouldn't be back until after election, Senator George H. Moses uttered a fervent "Amen."

He may not have uttered it audibly, but he uttered it, if I know anything of the New Hampshire senator, from several years' observation of him.

As manager of the Republicans' eastern seaboard campaign, Senator Moses has given an excellent imitation of a cat on a hot griddle thruout the entire series of interviews broadcast by Editor White, during the latter's stay in Manhattan.

..Making an attack on an opposition candidate, and then partly taking it back, and qualifying it, and apologizing for a good deal of it, is Senator Moses' idea of no way to do in politics.

That's the position Editor White was placed in, following his roast of Al Smith, as a tool of Tammany.

What irritates Moses is that Editor White originally jumped on Al out in his home state of Kansas—which was his own funeral—but subsequently came down to New York—which is Moses' bailiwick—to crawfish.

Moses is very sensitive to any imported bad management in his territory. He's conscious that he's regarded as a dangerous character himself.

Not that his loyalty's questioned.

He's as "regular" as Editor White—maybe more so, for White's pretty independent, and Moses' Republicanism is as stable as the foundations of his native "Old Granite State."

It's George's good judgment that's considered doubtful if anything.

The Republican national committee wouldn't admit it, any more, than Senator Moses would admit that he's sore on Editor White, but politicians all know that the bosses only put the New Hampshire solon in charge of the "down east" Hoover campaign because they couldn't get out of it.

Moses has a reputation for cracking amazingly telling jokes—on the opposition.

The thing that worries his more cautious fellow partisans is—

He cracks 'em so fast that they're afraid he does it unthinkingly at times—that he'll leave his guard down one of these days—fall for a feint and get one right on the button.

He's a formidable scrapper—one of the most so in public life.

Consequently, when he turned up at Republican headquarters and demanded the management of the G. O. P.'s eastern activities, the committee couldn't see its way clear to turning him down.

It did try to tie him up with a lot of conditions—to pull his punch. It figured that that was better than having him overdo himself.

Moses resented it hotly, and they had to give him a free hand.

At this point along comes Editor White, after a bad foozle, out in his home Sunflower state, and undertakes to explain it in Moses' midst—as if it had happened there.

Is it any wonder that it gets George's goat?

Isn't it bad enough for him to have a reckless reputation of his own to live down, without being required to bear the brunt of breaks made by a brother editor—for Moses runs a newspaper, too.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Children Continue To Procure Books At Branch Library

Library To Move First Part Of September; Other News Of Seventh Ward

An average of between 80 to 100 books are given out at the branch library in the seventh ward each Wednesday afternoon. This is an average for the summer months. The average distribution of books is really very good considering the branch library is open for only two hours a week, from 2 until 4 o'clock each Wednesday afternoon.

All books taken out are taken out by children of grade school age. The first Wednesday of August the number of books taken out was 77, this was a few less than usual.

During the winter months at Mahoning school the library is open for a whole day and between 50 and 600 books are given out then.

At the present time the library is located in a basement room at Mahoning school. The first part of September the library will be moved to their new quarters in the Solomon building at the corner of Liberty street and Wabash avenue. It is then planned to have the library open two days a week. At the new quarters there will be books for adults as well as children.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Great oaks from little acorns grow, is no axiom to be despised. The fortune Joe Leblang is putting into the skyscraper that will brace up the heavens at Forty-third and Broadway is founded upon the sale of theater tickets at cut rates.

Leblang got rich selling admissions to shows, good and bad, to penny-careful tourists and natives at less than box-office prices.

Years ago he began gleaning complimentary tickets to theaters from shopkeepers and others to whom they were given in return for window or billboard space, and selling them cheap. His office was his vest pocket. Then he began buying tickets at wholesale prices and reselling them at a reduction from the regular charge. The business grew, and eventually he bought the drug store in which he used a small stand, then the building, then half of the business block. He backed shows financially (as he still does) just in order to enlarge the supply of tickets that could be sold at cut rates.

Some producers fought him at first, and even opened rival cut-rate agencies. Eventually they recognized him as a powerful factor in the prosperity of Broadway, for through cut rates he sent into the theaters many persons that would not otherwise have gone. And "cut-rating" at Leblang's has saved many a show for prosperity. It was Joe's agency that made "Abie's Irish Rose" the biggest hit the stage has ever had.

Now Joe Leblang's, which occupies the basement of half a block, is world famous. Knowing well that sooner or later every show "gets into Joe's" at cut rates, many persons buy no tickets elsewhere.

The value of the land upon which the Leblang tower will cramp the clouds is $5,000,000. It has doubled in value in 20 years. Present tenants in street front shops pay as much as $25,000 a year rental for space no longer than a good-sized living room.

The real Indians got $24 for the whole island.

Most of New York's big fortunes have been made in real estate rather than in manufacture, finance or trade. The Astor wealth, for instance, comes almost exclusively from rentals. Benjamin Winter, penniless immigrant 20 years ago, is rated at $50,000,000 today as a result of dealings in Fifth avenue land. The Chain brothers came out of the World War without a penny. Real estate operations in New York have made them multi-millionaires in six or seven years. A. E. Lefcourt, still under 40, is among the richest men in a city where he has known want. Towering buildings in the garment district were his gold mines.

In summer New Yorkers take either to the country or to the roofs. The most popular dining places in summer are atop hotels or skyscrapers. And many persons have given up a country house in order to take one of the pent-houses of which every new skyscraper now has one or more. One simply isn't in it in New York unless one has a pent-house. Usually pent-house occupants have one or more additional residences hereabouts, the pent-house being used chiefly for what is called social purposes.

Sons Of Veterans Meet On Friday

A regular meeting of Oscar L. Jackson Camp, No. 249, Sons of Union Veterans, will be held Friday evening in the city building hall of the organization. A number of matters of importance will be up for consideration.

Company K will also meet the same night and make plans for social and other events to be held in the near future to further the cause of the company.

Chandler's $10,000,000 plant cannot build these marvelous cars fast enough

New Six "65"

Four-Door Sedan . . Coupe $875

New Big Six $1525

New Royal Eight "85" . . $1795

All prices f. o. b. Factory

IT has been but a few days since Chandler beaconed far and wide the big news of a new Six "65" at $895 . . . the sweetest, speediest and most powerful automobile ever built for less than twelve hundred dollars.

Only a few days . . . and already, from coast to coast, people are calling this new Six "65" the most remarkable automobile value they ever have seen.

Only a few days . . . and an avalanche of orders is pouring into the factory faster than Chandler's huge $10,000,000 plant can build the cars!

Such quick and overwhelming success reads more like an Arabian Nights story than a new epic of the motor car business.

But all you have to do is to see the car to see that it's an absolute knockout. It is lengthy and low. It's rich beyond its price. It's supremely powerful. Takes to the hills like a cat to catnip. Slips through traffic like an eel through a net. And does a sweet 65 and more on the open road!

Be sure to see and drive this amazing car before you commit yourself to anything else.

"Such rich, creamy suds"

"Rinso is the easiest way to wash clothes I ever heard of! I pity women who still use the old way. "Why, all you do is soak your clothes in the rich, creamy Rinso suds for a while, and all the ground-in dirt loosens right out so you don't have to do any hard rubbing.

"Just soaking gets my wash whiter than if I had spent hours scrubbing and boiling it. And that saves wear on the clothes, too.

"I find that Rinso goes farther than other soaps. That's because it makes our hard water so soft and sudsy."

East And West Coasts Joined By Bus System

By ROBERT A. HEREFORD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 9.—New York to Los Angeles via the "covered gas wagon".

Those ponderous motor busses, the closest modern relative of the old fashioned prairie schooner which once formed the sole connecting link between east and west, will join the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards by road under a new trans-continental bus system formed here recently by the presidents of four large independent bus line companies.

The bus heads, spurred on by the recent developments in air transportation, and by air-rail mergers, are also planning a bus-airplane relay to the coast.

8,000 Mile System.

Walter A. Nisun, Detroit, president of the Ni-sun Bus & Air lines; F. J. Malone, Pittsburgh, president of the Purple Swan Stage line; Frank Sewerer, Denver, president of the Paradox lines, and L. W. Kubetschek, Tulsa, head of the rapid transit lines, were the bus barons who met at the Westgate hotel and agreed to a readjustment of schedules and mutual ticket recognition.

The new system will serve approximately 8,000 miles of territory..

It is also expected that out of the present plan will come a gigantic financial merger of the four companies.

Under the agreement a passenger will be able to purchase a ticket in New York for Los Angeles and make the trip without interruption over the successive lines. Stop-over privileges will also be permitted at designated points.

The four lines travel approximately 22,000 miles daily over 4,000 miles of roads. By means of existing agreements with connecting lines the network will offer transportation east to Boston, as far south as Fort Worth and Dallas, Texas, and west to the coast. Washington, Philadelphia, Detroit and Baltimore will be served by connecting lines.

To Start Soon.

The air service to supplement the bus transportation will start within the next few weeks when the Ni-Sun company puts four six-passenger planes into operation between Kansas City and St. Louis. Eventually the air service will be extended.

The territories served by the four bus lines which entered the agreement follow:

Purple Swan—New York to Chicago.

Ni-sun lines—Detroit to Kansas City.

Paradox lines—Kansas City to Los Angeles.

Rapid Transit lines—Kansas City to Tulsa.

Approximately $2,000,000 is invested in the four companies.

M. J. Scanlon is building a sanitary sewer in Greenwood avenue from North street south to Park way and Elder & Ferry have started building the sanitary sewer in Harbor street. Smith & McQuiston are continuing to grade Cascade street between Butler avenue and the city line.

Marshall Fund Steadily Climbs

More Contributions Received For Aid Of Unfortunate Local Boy

Sixty-nine dollars is the total today of the Dale Marshall fund which will be used for an operation by which it is hoped that the boy can regain both his sight and hearing. Thirteen persons have contributed to the fund—by leaving their money at The News office.

For a long time his father has been taking him to many doctors in an almost hopeless effort to help the boy regain both his eyesight and hearing. Now his money is gone. COMING—"THE UNDERWORLD" "GOOD TIME CHARLEY"!

Post Cards From Europe

by William Ivy

PARIS, Aug. 9.—All France was indignant and bewildered at the action of the United States Lawn Tennis association in barring "Big Bill" Tilden from the Davis Cup finals and the re-entry and defeat of Tilden hasn't ended the matter. Not only is the lanky champion a great favorite with French followers of the sport, but the motives and method appear questionable to French critics.

It was particularly puzzling to have Tilden disqualified at the very moment that Pollock was authorized to run in the Olympics at Amsterdam.

The whole question of "amateurism" in sport has been reopened by this incident. For years many Frenchmen—members of a race famed for its logic — have been asking what useful purpose is served by trying to maintain the distinction between professional and amateur athletes. The argument for such a distinction appears to be that it is unfair to pit an amateur, who supposedly devotes only his leisure hours to sport, against a professional who has no other occupation.

But how many amateur champions are there who have any other serious occupation besides their sport? Many of them are rich men with nothing whatever to do but play tennis, golf, football, etc., or swim, jump or run. Others who have no personal fortune, are able by means of "travelling expenses" to devote all, or nearly all, their time to sports the year around. They travel from one end of the world to the other, from January to December, taking part in championships, cup matches, exhibition games and international meets.

What is the practical difference between such "amateurs" and the ordinary professional—except that frequently the professional does not live quite so lavishly?

So-called "amateur" sport is a money-making institution. The public pays for it at the box-office. Somebody gets the money. Probably the public would as soon have the cash to go to the players as to the promoters. In any case, much of it goes to the players already, under various disguises.

Mercer Dirt Road Is Being Oiled

The dirt road between New Wilmington and Mercer will be oiled again this afternoon, according to Bernard N. Hanlon, secretary-manager of the New Castle Motor club, who warns motorists that the road will not be fit to travel before late Friday afternoon or Saturday morning.

Wednesday morning, when persons from Mercer were coming to New Castle for the Scottish Rite picnic, many cars were bespattered with the oil which had been put on the road the day previous, Mr. Hanlon reports.

In these days it seems almost a boast when a woman remarks that she has "nothing to wear."—The Grand Rapids Press.

Henry Dysart, city policeman, assigned as inspector to the municipal legal department today served notice on C. C. The order was directed in a resolution passed by city council recently.

BACK SLAPPING MAY BE FATAL

Victim's Neck Broken By Greeting Of Workman In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 9.—"Hello, there, John" That hearty greeting and a slap on the back was Andrew Puskarick's welcome to John Miller, 20, fellow worker in the Collinwood shops of the New York Central Railroad.

Miller, instead of replying, gasped and fell to the floor. That was on July 24. Miller was rushed to Emergency Clinic hospital, St. Clair avenue N. E. and E. 152d street. The doctors said his neck was broken.

Yesterday, when blood poisoning set in, hospital officials called police and said Miller would probably die. Detectives went to the hospital and Miller explained that Puskarick had accidentally injured him.

Puskarick was held on a technical charge of assault and battery pending the outcome of Miller's case. He is 35, a blacksmith, and lives at 14805 Hale avenue N. E. Miller, whose home is in Pennsylvania, has been living at 14906 Hale avenue.

French Feminist Leaders Begin Fight For Vote

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Aug. 9.—French feminists are taking up arms and really beginning to fight seriously for their vote. Picketting by suffragettes which almost seems to have passed into history now that the English and American women have obtained what they wanted, has been revived by their Latin cousins and caused not a little excitement with the French gendarmes.

Up until the present time, very discreet, lady-like tactics have been used by French women—with few results. Led by Madame Verone, well-known woman divorce lawyer at the Paris courts, a number of women have lately been walking the streets about the Senate building carrying such signs as, "Who votes not, counts not", "No votes, no taxes" and "Women wish to vote but the Senate does not like it."

The Senate is the stumbling-block for the French suffragettes. The younger members of the House Representatives see no reason why the women should not go to the polls. The venerable senators, many of them in the seventies, do not approve and still believe that woman's place is in the home.

"Have these Senators realized that they wish to make us inferior to the negresses themselves, since negresses vote in English colonies," asks the well-known Duchesse d'Uzes, master of stag-hounds and the organizer of the Womans' Automobile club and many other feminine activities. "The real reason we are prevented from voting is the fear of these honorable gentlemen to see us interested in something besides politics."

Madame Verone gives figures and quotes provincial papers to show that French women, contrary to the general opinion are really much interested in obtaining the vote and declares that they will not end their battle until the victory is won.

Emerging from the hottest weather in seventeen years Paris discovered three things:

(1) the water supply for the suburbs is insufficient.

(2) proprietors of boulevard cafes may refuse to serve a customer on the terrace if he is in shirt sleeves.

(3) policemen refuse to wear white drill trousers.

As the mercury went to 97 degrees Fahrenheit, suburban faucets went dry. Paris itself consummed 650,000 cubic meters of water, or 10,000 cubic meters more than on any previous day in the history of modern plumbing.

A tourist informed a French editor that he was refused refreshments when he appeared coatless on a cafe terrace. "And I was wearing a silk shirt," reported the tourist.

Why the policemen refused to wear white trousers remains a mystery. It probably will go down as the French equivalent to the American conundrum: "Why does the fireman wear red suspenders?"

One policeman who did not wear white trousers suffered a sunstroke. He was patrolman Leclerq, traffic officer and owner of the largest set of whiskers in Paris. He recovered and is again directing traffic and still sporting his whiskers.

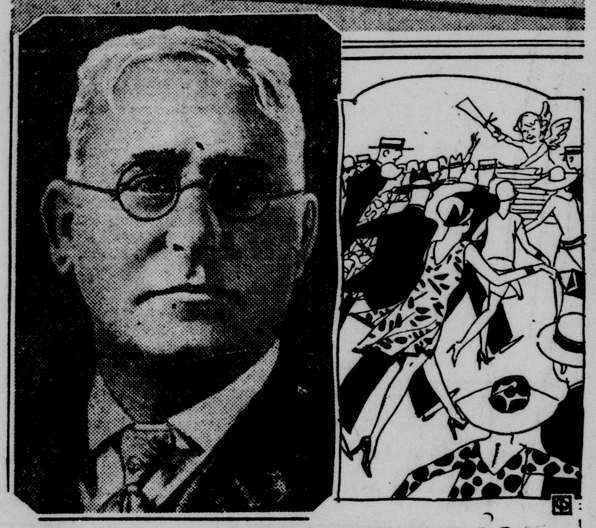
COUPLES RUSH "CUPID'S CORNER"



"Cupid's Corner" is the name bestowed upon York, S. C., because of the hundreds of couples married there each year. Many, seeking matrimony, come from North Carolina, a few miles away, where marriage laws are stricter. Above, the courthouse at York where 2,678 couples flocked last year. G. P. Smith, left, judge of probate, issues the licenses and ties the knot. Judge Smith issued 100 licenses and married 90 of the couples on the day before Christmas last year. Divorce is as hard as marriage is easy there, since the state does not recognize divorce, and a movement is on foot in South Carolina to support a federal divorce and marriage law.

Tunney And His Fiancee Talk Over Marriage Plans

Gene Tunney And Miss Josephine Lauder Play Hide And Seek With Reporters

Couple Happy Together On Vast Island Estate Which Is Heavily Guarded

(International News Service)

SOUTH BRISTOL, Me., Aug. 9.—With guards patrolling the shores of St. John's island and cut off from the mainland by water, Gene Tunney and "Polly" Lauder today were discussing their wedding plans in what was described as "a perfect love sanctuary."

The engagement of Tunney and Miss Mary Josephine Lauder having been formally announced by the girl's mother, Mrs. George Lauder, interest turned to the date of the wedding, a ceremony which will unite the former New York shipping clerk, who fought his way to the world's heavyweight championship and then relinquished the title, and the $50,000,000 heiress, member of a socially prominent and wealthy family, the wedding will take place "in New York in the late autumn or winter" was the only announcement.

Press is Barred.

Guards barred from the island newspaper reporters seeking further information and photographers seeking photographs.

Osculatory greetings were missing when Gene and "Polly" met upon his arrival at the landing of the Lauder estate. As the launch containing the retired champion stopped and Tunney stepped ashore he was greeted with a cheery "Hello Gene." "Hello Joe," was his reply. The young couple walked toward the lauder estate arm in arm.

Wylie Erskine, the only eye witness to the meeting, told of it today. Gene evidently calls Miss Lauder "Joe", although she is known to her girl friends as "Polly".

Tunney Plays Golf.

Swimming, boating, golfing and playing hide-and-seek with the press have been the pastimes of Tunney and his fiancee. Tunney outwitted the newspapermen by going ashore at Wiscasset for a game of golf and Miss Lauder did the same thing when she suddenly arrived here in a launch guarded by Captian Edward Harrington, slipping up to the postoffice, got her mail and was back aboard the motorboat while the reporters and photographers raced down the town's little streets to find her.

The island is a mile from South Bristol and has a shore line of four miles. The island is owned entirely by the Lauders.

Tunney is a Catholic and Miss Lauder is an Episcopalian but it was understood here that before the engagement was formally announced all complications which might arise from a difference of faith had been arranged.

Infantry Brigade In Combat Phase Of Training Period

(International News Service)

CAMP HENDERSON, MT. GRETNA, Pa., Aug. 9.—Battalions of the 55th infantry brigade under Brigadier General Edward Martin of Washington, Pa., today entered into the combat phase of their two weeks of intensive field training marching away to bivouac for the night several miles from camp.

The second battalion of the 109th infantry under Major Stanley F. Coar containing companies from Carbondale, Stroudsburg and Honesdale will oppose the second battalion of the 110th infantry under Major Albert O. King, containing companies from Western Pennsylvania. These battalions together with the attached service sections and Howitzer platoon represent the Blues and Reds and will meet in a sham battle tomorrow.

Leaving camp with full packs the batallions marched to the fields where they will camp for the night. The march was conducted under simulated war conditions with the advance and rear guard and reconnoitering patrols scouting for the enemy.

The soldiers of the 109th infantry under Col. Robert M. Vail of Scranton and the 110th infantry under Col. John Aiken of Washington, who stayed in camp practiced with rifle, pistol, machine gun, bayonet, grenade and went through infantry drill.

Col. Clarence B. Smith's command the 213th coast artillery, anti-aircraft also went into the field taking with them their batteries and searchlights, National Guard airplanes will fly over the encampment at night and the 213th will try to pick them out with the huge searchlights.

U. S. Swimmers In Clean Sweep In 100-Metre Final

Records For Event Are Broken; U. S. Mermaids Fail To Place

(International News Service)

OLYMPIC SWIMMING STADIUM, AMSTERDAM, Aug. 9. — America made a clean sweep of the 100-metre backstroke final in the Olympic swimming championships today when George Kojac, New York; Walter Laufer, Chicago and Paul Wyatt, Uniontown, Pa., reached the finish line in that order.

Kojac, swimming the race of his life, was timed in the new world's record figures of 1:08 1-5. Laufer was clocked in 1:10 and Wyatt in 1:12.

Thus, both Kojac and Laufer bettered the listed record of 1:11 2-5 and Wyatt missed it only by three-fifths of a second. An application by James House, America, for a record of 1:10 1-5, made in a 25 yard pool at New Haven, Conn., last year has been pending before the international authorities. Kojac's record now will take precedence. The former Olympic record for the event 1:13 2-5, was made by Warren Kealoha, the Hawaiian, at the Paris Olympics in 1925.

However, if the American male swimmers swept the back stroke event the Yankee mermaids went to the other extreme by failing to get in the first three in the women's 200-metre breast stroke, which went to the German record holder, Fraulein Schrader, with Miss M. Baron, Holland, second, and another Teuton, Fraulein Muhe, third. The winning Fraulein was timed in 3:12 3-5, failing to disturb the record of 3.11 1-5 she made in yesterday's trials. Miss Gertrude Hoffman, Kingston, Pa., was fifth in 3:19 1-5.

Girl Scouts Have Big Time Camping

Enjoy Overnight Hike And Other Out-Of-Door Programs During Week

GIRL SCOUT CAMP, Harlansburg, Aug. 9.—The Girl Scout camp located a short distance from Harlansburg has at present 41 girls in addition to the regular staff. Hiking and eating seem to be the main amusements of the girls and from word received in town they are having an exceptional time.

Tuesday night the girls enjoyed an overnight hike to the Carnegie Rod & Gun club, a distance of three and one half miles. They slept in the open and cooked breakfast over fires that they built.

Wednesday evening stories were told, songs were sung and marshmallows toasted over the huge camp fire. Appetites are whetted by the fresh air and exercise and according to the dietitian, Miss Gertrude Fullerton, seven gallons of milk were required for lunch yesterday.

The camp appreciated the new flag pole set up by H. S. Christman and his able assistants. A load of cinders for a mud hole in the drive was donated by D. S. Pyle of the Shenango Tin Mill. This has made traveling easier for the ice man, milk man and everyone in general.

If any one has any kitchen utensils, dish pans, frying pan, kettle or what not they would like to loan the camp it would be appreciated. A good oil stove would also come in handy, report some of the girl campers.

ALL RIGHT NOW

She was visiting the zoo and gathering as much information about the animals as possible in one short afternoon.

Eventually she came to the house where the bears were quartered.

"Are these animals carnivorous?" she asked the keeper, who was keeping a watchful eye upon all the small boys in the vicinity.

The keeper scratched his head and then he smiled brightly.

Reporter Trots Around Some Thirteen Miles In One Day's News Hike

When the next cross country derby comes around, one of The News reporters will be missing from the rank and file of the office. Yesterday the reporter walked just 13¾ miles from morning until going to bed for he carried a pedometer and measured every step.

The day's run was just the average and believe it or not it's quite a chore over the hot city streets from one end of town to another. It's rain or shine, cold or warm and the last few days it's been shine and warm.

The idea of the pedometer is that you measure your steps and set the pedometer. You put the little do-funny in your watch pocket and every step is recorded. Then all you have to do is figure up the jolts a your average step measure and you have it.

Try it out some time. It probably doesn't get the distance down exactly to the inch but it will give you a fair estimate of how many rods or miles you walk every day.

Some of the city mailmen probably win the prize for walking the farthest distance each day.

Noted Missionaries Will Speak Sunday

The services Sunday at the Pentacostal Tabernacle on South street, will be of a special missionary character. While the services will be in charge of the pastor F. D. Drake, the special speakers will be Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Slocum, missionaries on furlough from the border of Napal, India.

Dr. Slocum was formerly a physician in regular practice and who was converted in a wonderful manner and called to the foreign missionary work in India. He was accompanied to India by Mrs. Slocum, who is also a very earnest Christian worker.

For a number of years they have labored as faith missionaries and are qualified to speak out of a rich spiritual experience on missions. The services at which Dr. and Mrs. Slocum will appear on Sunday will be held at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Declares Smith Forced Wet Issue

Editor Insists His Stand Is Not In Line With Platform Intent

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Dr. Albert Shaw, editor of the American Review of Reviews, in a letter to Senator Key Pittman of Nevada just made public, said that Gov. Smith forced the prohibition issue into the campaign after the Democratic platform builders had done their best to keep it out by merely pledging enforcement.

The letter was a reply to one from the senator criticizing an editorial in the magazine, in which the governor's statement to the convention was called "a broad and sweeping repudiation" of the prohibition plank in the Democratic platform.

In his letter, Senator Pittman quoted from the record of the committee on resolutions to show it was the members' deliberate intent that the prohibition plank should leave candidates of the party full liberty to voice their views of prohibition.

Reply In Part

In his reply Dr. Shaw wrote in part:

"Far from criticizing the governor, I thought he showed his courage and straightforwardness in standing firmly by views that he was not disposed to modify merely on grounds of party expediency.

"I understood that the convention had adopted its platform with deliberate purpose: (1) To satisfy those that think that prohibition is a desirable thing in itself, (2) To convey the impression that Democrats regard the law as capable of being better enforced than at present.

"Unquestionably, the governor's message forced the issue of prohibition into the campaign.

"It seems to me that his stand was not in keeping with the program of the convention or the intention of the platform committee.

"But this stand of his was already fully known, and the point raised as to 'repudiation' does not seem material. It is not a question of what the governor meant but rather a question of how the dry Democrats choose to view it."

Over 70,000 Markers Placed On Highways

Throughout this district on the state highways as well as the remainder of the roads in the entire state, state route markers have been placed. Some 70,000 markers have been placed on 13,000 miles of highways.

Previous to this time, road markings were painted on poles or what not and it was sometimes difficult for the passing motorist to follow any route with any exactness. Each and every road is now marked and at the intersection of every road a marker is placed so that it will be almost impossible to lose a route.

The black numerals on the white background make a combination that is also very easily seen at a glance during the night.

Many Visitors At State Parks During Summer

HARRISBURG, Aug 9.—Visitors in unprecedented numbers are enjoying the benefits of the five state parks according to reports made to the Department of Forests and Waters. While each of the state parks commemorate historic events and were created primarily for that purpose the increasing number of tourists and visitors has necessitated the development of recreational conveniences.

Each of the five parks was created by special acts of the general assembly. They are administered by separate, non-salaried commissions appointed by the governor. The Department of Forests and Waters in 1923 was given fiscal control over the state parks and the secretary of Forests and Waters was made a member , former officio of each of the State Park commissions.

Valley Forge First .

Valley Forge was the first state park created in Pennsylvania being provided for by legislation of 1893. The next state park to be created was Fort Washington established in 1915. This was followed by Washington Crossing State Park established in 1917, the Pennsylvania State Park in 1921 and the Bushey Run State Park in 1927. With the exception of the Pennsylvania State park which was transferred to the state by the War Department these areas were all purchased by the state aside from the gift of a few acres in Fort Washington Park.

Valley Forge is located along Valley Creek near its junction with the Schuylkill river about 15 miles northwest of Philadelphia. It contains 1,423 acres embracing the site occupied by the Continental army in the winter of 1777-78. There has been appropriated by the state for its purchase and improvement a total of $2,090,000.

Fort Washington.

The Fort Washington State park covers 166 acres embracing the historic site upon which was erected Fort Washington in Whitemarsh township, Montgomery county. The Fort Washington Park commission is composed of the members of the Fairmont Park commission of Philadelphia and this commission was authorized to acquire land for this park not to exceed 1,100 acres. To date the state has appropriated $341,750 upon acquisition improvement and maintenance.

Washington Crossing.

The Washington Crossing State Park commemorates the site on which the Continental army was assembled the night preceding the Battle of Trenton, December 25, 1776. The place of embarkation the old Ferry house and other properties, including 1,200 of river front have been purchased. An area of not more than 500 acres is authorized and 320 acres of this have been acquired. The park is to be maintained in as nearly as possible its original condition but provisions have been made for public use including bathing facilities on the river. The total appropriation by the state to date has been $446,000.

State Park.

The Pennsylvania State Park occupies a peninsula of about 3,200 acres including the bay of Presque Isle and the harbor of Erie. It was here that [illegible] Perry's fleet was constructed before the naval battle of Lake Erie. This state park was established through the co-operation of the United States War Department which in 1921 transferred the area to the state without cost. The state appropriated $235,000 and the city of Erie $75,000 for the development of the park and the present biennial appropriation by the state is $150,000. A bathing beach and other recreational advantages are being developed. Government fishhatcheries are maintained on the property.

Bushey Run.

The Bushey Run Battlefield commission was authorized by act of May 4, 1927 to negotiate with the Bushey Run Battlefield Memorial association for the acquisition by the commonwealth of that part of the battlefield then owned by the association and to further acquire by purchase or gift additional areas sufficient to preserve the site of the Battlie of Bushey Run. Here occurred on August 5-6 1763 one of the most decisive engagements of American colonial history in which the Indians were defeated by Col. Henry Bouquet.

Box Car Takes Wild Plunge At Cement Plant

The box car which strayed from its moorings at the siding out at the Lehigh Cement Company plant is still lying over the bank down at the Butler road.

In some manner, the brakes of the car let loose and a car of cement started down the tracks which lead down to the embankment above the Butler highway. As there was no obstruction to retard its progress, it leaped down over the bank at the end of the siding and buried itself in the soft fill cinders.

Some 15 or 20 barrels of cement were lost in the wreck of the car. The car was damaged somewhat and the front wheels broken.

The same public discernment which made Essex the world's largest selling "Six," gives picture-like vividness to the car's enormous excess of value.

It is impressive to know that point for point the Essex Super-Six equals or excels any car up to $300 or $400 greater cost. But cold figures can't express the drama of this Chicago school teacher who writes:

"I looked at several costlier cars first, but I liked the Essex much better in every way, and I saved enough to pay almost all expenses of my European trip."

Or this Ohio business man: "My Essex gives me every fine car quality and performance ability which our former costlier car gave, and we saved enough to pay for the whole family's touring vacation."

In every detail from radiator shutters to a riding ease like flying, this Essex is built, looks and acts like a costly car.

You cannot mistake this impression of completeness and fine quality in every detail. And you cannot forget that item after item brings you directly to costly cars to find comparison.

Add these to the performance of its famous Super-Six high-compression, high efficiency motor, and you have perfectly visible advantages from $300 to $400 greater value than any car in its field, a fact responsible for the largest 6-cylinder sale in history.

You have but to examine and ride in the Essex to share this universal conviction about "the World's Greatest Value."

Says Fate Called; Children Scalded

(International News Service)

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., Aug. 9. — "Fate called three times and they had to answer."

This was the belief of Alex Milauskas, 18, who, with the resignation which characterizes descendants of the Slavic races, repeated the story of the deaths of his two-year-old brother, Alphonse, and ten-year-old sister, Anna. The children were scalded to death when a copper boiler containing hot water overturned.

Twice the children went next door to watch Miss Vitola Jeleniewski boil clothing in the huge copper boiler, the older brother said, and twice their mother called them back. The third time they went to their deaths.

The accident occurred when Miss Jeleniewski asked Anna to stir the clothes while she went upstairs. Anna's two-year-old brother stood watching his sister when the boiler slipped and tipped over. Alphonse was smothered beneath the scalding clothes and his sister was so badly scalded that she died a few hours later.

MEXICAN RULERS WHO DIED FOR THEIR BELIEFS

The vanguard of former fighting men and their ladies descended on Conneaut Lake yesterday, and the opening program today saw a gigantic peacetime army split into little groups of reminiscing ex-soldiers. The vets are here for four days.

Interferes With Police Officer; Pays $10 Fine

Interfering with an officer while on duty cost Clarence Reese $10 in police court this morning, when he was taken from a house on Williams street Wednesday evening. Five others, in the same party, were ordered into police court this morning, but no charges were preferred against them.

When the officers answered a call to the scene of the party, Reese, who was not the owner of the house, asked the officers for a search warrant. When he was told that the police did not need a warrant on such a case, he told one of the other members of the party to "get a gun." Lieutenant Hillers, Detective John Young and Officer M. J. Young answered the call, sent in by neighbors, who charged that the party was disturbing the peace.

Believe Burglar Report Was Boy's Vivid Imagination

The imagination of small boys can make anything out of anything.

Wednesday evening W. S. Hoag of 222 East Falls street had company. It was necessary for the smaller Hoags to sleep downstairs. This morning, when the family awakened, the smaller Hoags reported that they had seen burglars in the house Wednesday evening; burglars peering in the nooks and crannies with the aid of a flashlight.

This morning Detective Logan and Officer Lynch investigated the scene of the alleged nocturnal prowlings, but could find no evidence of any burglarizing.

Liquor Joints In Kansas City Get Stiff Blow

By ROBERT JAMES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 9.—Hard hit by raids prior to and following the Republican National convention hard liquor "joints" in Kansas City are fast becoming passe and as a result home brew manufacturing is widespread. Kansas City at least has a "home brew taste."

That is the gist of a report issued by Chief of Police Lincoln R. Toyne who recently conducted raids from downtown to outlying residential sections of the city.

Speakeasies Closed.

Ninety "speakeasies"—some of which were really regulation barrooms never changed from the 1918 "flavor" except in produsct—were closed just before the delegates arrived in June, and there followed a gradual closing down of the less pretentious "joints" in a total of 575 raids.

Because the "hard liquor" became scarcer with each close-down drinkers just as quickly shifted to home brew and now according to the police chief's report "a great deal of brew is obeing made in the homes."

Grocery stores, drug stores and "bottlers supply houses" are featuring malts, hops and accoutrements in there windows in place of the hitherto usual grocery or drug displays.

Liquor Seized.

Only 1,742 gallons of mash and 1,682 gallons of corn whiskey have been seized in numerous raids since May 15 Chief Toyne's report shows. Compared with five years ago or even two years ago the same number of raids would have netted many times that amount "without looking around any too closely" raiding squad men say

Wines are found in a great many of the homes, especially in the Italian quarter it is shown in the raid statistics.

In the place of the old "speakeasy" wher a "shot" meant a generous glassful of corn liquor that tastes like gasoline smells, has some of the apartment house—"third floor north," etc. ,if you follow the taxi man's instructions—where the drinker can rest in comfort and drink home brew.

Plans Complete For Tribute To Haid On Friday

New Castle Fans Going To Forbes Field To Honor Local Twirler

At noon tomorrow, a long cavalcade of automobiles will move out of New Castle for Pittsburgh where at Forbes Field, New Castle sportsmen will pay tribute to Harold Haid, local lad pitching for St. Louis in the National League.

The cars will not move out in formation, each driver taking his own route and starting at whatever time he sees fit. However, the fans will sit together in Section 19 of Forbes Field, which is directly back of the St. Louis bench on the third base line.

Sometime during the progress of the game, perhaps about the fifth inning, Chairman John J. Maher and a group of the fans will go to the home plate where Mr. Maher will present him with a wrist watch in behalf of the fans here.

At noon today it was thought that about seventy-five would make the trip down, not alone to participate in the Haid testimonial, but also to see the Pirates and the Cardinals tangle.

St. Louis is a serious contender for the National League pennant this year and from all indications New Castle will have a world series pitcher from its midst.

DOUBLE THE YIELD OF WINTER WHEAT

BY using "AA QUALITY" Fertilizers under last season's wheat crop, Mr. Raymond Crouch, of Cohocton, Steuben County, N. Y., doubled his yield of winter wheat. He got 15 bushels per acre from his 1926 crop, against 30 bushels from his 1927 crop. Mr. Crouch says, in a letter dated September 20, 1927:

"I attribute at least one-half of my yield of 30 bushels per acre to the use of 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer."

From every county in this section come similar reports of bigger yields, better quality and increased profits where "AA QUALITY" goods are used. Farmers who want the utmost profit on their season's effort, cannot ignore these facts. Here is proof of the great difference in the crop-producing power of fertilizers of the same chemical analysis. Proof that "AA QUALITY" Fertilizers pay you a larger profit for every dollar invested in plant food.

These goods are made with the utmost care from the choicest plant-food materials obtainable. These materials are selected for their crop-producing power, not just for chemical analysis. Nothing is left to chance—nothing is taken for granted. These plant-food materials must meet rigid "AA QUALITY" standards, else they are rejected. "Good enough" does not suffice in making "AA QUALITY" goods. Perfect mechanical condition, always. Every pound of this carefully made plant food is thoroughly remilled and screened before it is shipped to you.

That is why "AA QUALITY" Fertilizers produce bigger yields, better quality—and larger profits. That is why "AA QUALITY" goods are by all odds the cheapest fertilizer you can buy.

Be sure that you use "AA QUALITY" Fertilizer on your next wheat crop. See the nearest "AA QUALITY" dealer today.

Facts for Wheat Growers

From Mr. A. M. Arnold, Brockport, Monroe Co., N. Y.:

"On my field of 14 acres of wheat sown October 1, 1926, I used 250 lbs. of 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer to the acre. I cut the field July 14, 1927. It yielded 35 bushels per acre which was well above the average in this section. As a matter of fact, I can safely say that 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer increased my yield fully one-third." July 14, 1927.

From Mr. G. A. Neal, Alabama, Genesee Co., N. Y.:

"I have used various other makes of fertilizers but find that 'AA QUALITY' give me the best results and invariably are in good drilling condition. They certainly live up to their name, 'AA'. This year I had only 10 acres of wheat due to last fall's rains, but from that 10 acres I threshed 405 bushels." October 27, 1927.

Local Recruiting Officer To Be Assigned To Active Duty At Once

Sergeant Jack Thomas, U. S. Army recruiting officer inthis city for the past three months, has received orders to report to the Pittsburgh office of the U. S. army recruiting service Friday morning according to a statement made by him at noon today.

Sergeant Thomas will probably be assigned to the fifteenth infantry, with work in the district of Tientsin, China. However he is not yet certain where his superiors will place him, but holds the hope that he will receive the foreign appointment.

Sergeant C. Young, Thomas's successor in the local office, arrived from Pittsburgh today to take over his new duties here. Thomas will probably leave the city early tomorrow morning.

Taking Better Care Of Dogs In County Says J. W. Brewster

Lawrence county owners are taking beter care of their dogs and obeying the law better, said J. Wylie Brewster, agent of the Bureau of Animal Industry. Fewer cases of sheep killing and other trouble with dogs are in evidence now than ever before.

There have been more licenses issued until now this year than there were in the same length of time for last year and this does not indicate that the dogs are more plenty but that the owners are getting the licenses said Mr. Brewster.

The new law has had quite a bit to do with the more honest and prompt attention to getting dog license. Previously the dog was shot if it had no license but the new law prosecutes the owner.

DU PONT LIKELY TO AID SMITH

Believe Millionaire Plans To Take Up Battle For Democratic Nominee

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Reports that Pierre S. DuPont, chairman of the board of General Motors Corporation and the gigantic E. I. DuPont De Nemours Co., would actively support the Presidential candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith were current in financial circles and at Democratic national headquarters today as the directors of General Motors assembled for their regular quarterly meeting.

DuPont, one of the wealthiest men in the United States, announced he would have an important statement to make at the conclusion of the board's session.

Reports in the financial district were that he would temporarily relinquish his place on the General Motors directorate in order to be free to devote himself to the Smith campaign.

The board is expected also to act upon the resignation of John J. Raskob as chairman of the finance committee, submitted two weeks ago when he began actual service as chairman of the Democratic national committee.

DuPont heretofore always has been identified with Republican politics, but has never held office. His cousin, T. Coleman DuPont, one-time president of the great powder company, is now Republican senator from the DuPonts' native Delaware.

Pierre DuPont has long been an intimate friend of Raskob and guided him in his struggle to the finance chairmanship of one of America's greatest corporations.

Dry Candidates Win In Missouri

Lead In Both Democratic And Republican Party Primary Elections

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 9.—The prohibition issue ushered a heated race for the Republican United States senatorial nomination to the forefront after most of the major contests in the Missouri primary election Tuesday had been settled late Wednesday by decisive vote.

Roscoe C. Patterson of Springfield, United States district attorney at Kansas City, and Nathan Frank of St. Louis, a former congressman, jockeyed for first place, but after forging to the front from third place, Frank relinquished the lead.

St. Louis wet votes swept Frank to the top, but with the St. Louis vote virtually complete, and approximately a thousand of the 4,140 precincts to be tabulated, Patterson's lead was swelled hourly by rural districts.

Reed Man Loses.

Patterson had a lead of 2,277 when returns from 3,127 precincts were tabulated. His vote was 91,480, Frank 89,203 and David M. Proctor of Kansas City 74,110.

The wet and dry question also figured in the race for the Democratic nomination for United States senator. A heavy St. Louis wet vote failed to appreciably reduce the lead of Charles M. Hay of St. Louis, an ultra-dry, over James A. Collett of Salisbury, wet candidate and political protege of Senator James A. Reed. With 3,272 of the 4,140 precincts returns tabulated, Hay had 143,274 and Collett 124,950.

In the races for the gubernatorial nominations, Francis M. Wilson of Platte City, Democrat, and Henry S. Caulfield, St. Louis, Republican, scored decisive victories.

National League Race Tightening

Cards, Giants And Pirates Show To Advantage In Drive For Pennant

LEFTY HEIMACH TO PITCH FOR YANKS

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The National league pennant race took on an entirely new aspect today as the result of New York's two victories in three games with St. Louis, seven straight wins by Pittsburgh, Philadelphia's clean sweep in the four-game Chicago series and the eight straight defeats suffered by Cincinnati in the intersectional engagements just concluded. The newly-found strength of the Phillies and the Braves, who whipped the Reds twice yesterday, means that John McGraw's fighting Giants will have able allies when they begin their final invasion of the west next week.

St. Louis won nine games and lost six in the east, while the inspired New York team took 13 out of 17 and now trail the leaders by only 4½ games. The Cards have won seven games and lost eight against the Giants, and have seven more contests with the New Yorkers on their schedule. The league leaders face the fast-stepping Pirates today and later on they must play 11 more contests with the Reds and Cubs, against whom they have won only 16 games and lost 17 during the season to date.

Giants Down Cards.

In their last three games with St. Louis the Giants dented the plate 24 times, outscoring the Cards 2 to 1. Yesterday the McGrawmen won 10 to 5.

The Philly team, which has wrecked the Cubs, is composed entirely of young blood with the exception of Sand, and even he has been decorating the bench at times lately. Manager Shotton is seeking more long distance hitters like Don Hurst and has found one in Chuck Klein, rookie outfielder. Klein has hit three homers in his first week. He got one yesterday which helped the Phils beat the Cubs, 4 to 3.

The pitching of Bob Smith and Delaney and Sisler's hitting featured Boston's 12 to 1 and 6 to 3 victories over the Reds. In the nightcap Smith yielded only two hits, both singles and both made by Wallie Pipp. Sisler collected six hits.

Glenn Wright had a lucky day as Pittsburgh nosed out Brooklyn 4 to 3, beating the Dodgers by one run for the third game in succession. Wright drove in two runs after Catcher Deberry dropped a foul from his bat. Later Outfielder Herman lost Wright's fly in the sun. It went for a triple and was converted into the winning run.

No American league contests were scheduled yesterday. Lefty Heimach, New York's new pitcher, is scheduled to work against the Red Sox today when the Yanks play Boston.

Fate Calls Player

And Minor Team Loses Sweet Rookie

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Sports Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

Here is a story of one of the vagaries of baseball.

How fate, a head-on collision and a young man's fire can make a major league manager wonder what it's all about.

It starts with the training trip of the Cleveland Indians last spring.

Listed among the rookies of the team as it worked out at New Orleans was Carl Lind, a young infielder. He had come to the team as a shortstop prospect from the Denver club of the Western association. He had come highly recommended, too. But so had a dozen other rookies. And the club was counting on the Veteran George Burns to play first, Fred Spurgeon or Lew Fonseca to play second, the deep voiced Joey Sewell to romp another year at short, Hodapp to cover third. Of the rookies Eddie Montague, coast boy, apparently had the call on the first infield vacancy which might bob up through the failure of one of the vets to hit his old stride.

So Lind was slated, almost from the time he arrived, to go back to the minors for another year's seasoning. It was simply a case of getting a good line on him before he went.

When the team reached home for the opening of the season definite arrangements were made to farm him to the Toledo club of the American association—near home—where the Indiana bosses could keep a close check on him. Casey Stengel, Toledo pilot, was eager to get him. The Mudhens needed a second baseman.

Then came the opening game of the season. A near tragedy. The break for Lind.

Eddie Morgan started the game in the outfield. Lew Fonseca at second. A high fly back of second. The two players, running blind crashed into each other and were rushed to the hospital.

The departure of Lind was delayed. He was tossed into the gap. Followed various shifts in the lineup to strengthen the team, and these shifts found Lind carrying on in brilliant fashion.

Today he is easily the outstanding star of the team.

George Burns, the veteran first baseman and two-base hitter, has faded from the picture. Fonseca returns only at intervals. Eddie Morgan, tried in the outfield and then at third, has finally wound up at first base. The other day Luther Harvel, Omaha outfielding star, stepped into centerfield and delivered in a fashion that warrants retaining him there. And more changes are expected in the lineup as the rebuilding process is carried on more elaborately over the closing weeks of the season. But Lind is booked to remain at second "from now on," as the convict remarked.

And as for Casey Stengel and the Toledo Mudhens. Well, they're still waiting for a second baseman. Have been handicapped all season by a hole at that position. Stengel made his latest trip to Cleveland the other day to suggest once more that he get something in lieu of Carl.

And in the meantime what of the decision of the Cleveland bosses that Carl needed another season in the minors before he would be ripe to play major league ball?

Bum guess, perhaps. But weighing his experience and his showing in the south there was no reason for suspecting that the young man was ready and rarin' to go with the best of them.

Just one of the vagaries of the game—and one of the things that drive baseball magnates and managers goofey.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Sports Writer for Central Press and New Castle News

Where would the New York Yankees be at the present writing had Owner Jake Ruppert voluntarily or at the suggestion of the American League moguls "wrecked" his team to bolster some of the other clubs?

Probably about fifth place.

And the momentarily precarious position of the Colonel's team, points out the absurdity of such a move ever having been contemplated.

Momentarily, we repeat, the vaunted attacking power of the champions, which threatened to wreck the entire baseball structure, has been made to look quite impotent. The mighty bats of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig continue to ring with regularity, but the pitching staff—which was holding the opposition much as milady holds her poodle on a silk ribbon—suddenly went bloole.

And performed virtually the same operation that the radical suggestionists proposed some two months ago.

The Yankees still have the inside track on the pennant, but the race is no longer an Australian pursuit affair with the Athletics eight or 10 laps behind. The Yankees have their work cut out if they hope to retain the championship.

Meanwhile the spurt of the Athletics has renewed interest in the race generally all over the league. Bigger crowds are turning out to see both of these clubs in action, wherever they play. And along with the blooming interest in the pennant fight itself has been born new interest in the race for first division honors, with the Cleveland Indians, Washington Senators and St. Louis Browns hot after third and fourth place honors.

To make matters more interesting, the gap between the Athletics—riding along in second place—isn't so broad that it can't be hurdled by one of the other clubs should the Mackmen suddenly blow.

And then apart from the hectic scramble in the American League itself, interest has been added to baseball generally by the successful fight of the St. Louis Cardinals to date in the National League race. Bill McKechnie's team shows no sign at the writing of riding into a slump. The outstanding feature of the Cardinals' play this season has been the consistency of its attack and defense.

What a season this may turn out to be, after all!

A good name is more to be desired than great riches, in spite of the fact that it isn't so successful in keeping a man out of jail.—The Frand Rapids Press.

Loughran Favored By Boxing Board Of Pennsylvania

State Athletic Commission Ready To Acknowledge Loughran If He Wins

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—The Pennsylvania state athletic commission will recognize Tommy Loughran as heavyweight champion of the world—when Tommy has defeated all the other outstanding contenders for the throne abdicated by Gene Tunney. That was the verdict of the ring solons at their weekly meeting here, action having been taken on a formal letter from Loughran in which he asked that he be named as Tunney's successor.

"Loughran has proven himself a real fighting champion in the light heavyweight division," declared Chairman Frank Wiener, "but this commission would not be living up to its principle if it handed Tommy the championship on a silver tray. It has always been the contention of this commission that titles must be fought for and won in the ring. Let Tommy go out and fight and beat the leading heavyweights, and this body as well as sportsmen in general will recognize him as the champion."

CHURCH LEAGUE MANAGERS WILL MEET TONIGHT

Notice is again brought to the attention of the board of directors of the church baseball league that a meeting will be held tonight at the Y. M. C. A. at nine o'clock. It is an important meeting and it is urgent that every member of the board be present.

A Perennial Star — By Feg Murray

If you'll pardon a pun, I will now tell a little cereal story about Mr. Rice, of Washington. For this remarkable gentleman, who is now in his twelfth season with Washington, and who was 36 years old last February, is setting a record for consistency and steadiness that many more ballyhooed players are going to have a hard time to equal.

Sam, whose real name is Edgar Charles Rice, still retains the great natural speed and the keen batting eye that have made him so valuable to the Senators ever since he joined them in 1915 as a promising young right-handed pitcher. Rice has never hit below .295 and in 1925 reached .350 for the season and .367 in the world series with Pittsburgh. His lifetime average is .322, better than that of Bob Meusel, Charlie Jamieson, George Harper, Max Carey, Rube Bressler, and Cy Williams, to mention a few well-known outfielders.

Sam steals about twenty or twenty-five bases each season, and is one of the smartest and most reliable men on the Washington team. Watching him play, you get an impression of cool-headedness, as well as dazzling speed. Fans won't forget his remarkable catch in a world series game in Washington in 1925, when he fell over a low fence but held the ball. Sam set a record in 1924 in being at bat nine times in a single game. In the last eight years Rice has averaged just under 100 runs and just over 200 hits a season.

If I had Rice's record, I'd feel all puffed up.

Martha Norelius came on board the President Roosevelt en route to the Olympics with a case of poison ivy. Several other members of the team came on board with cases of something much stronger.

Canzoneri-Routis Bout Is Arranged

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Having practically closed a Tony Canzoneri-Andre Routis bout, matchmaker Jess McMahon of Madison Square Garden today was dickering for a welterweight title bout between Ace Hudkins, of Nebraska, and Joe Dundee, the champion. McMahon wants to stage the match some time in October.

Canzoneri signed to defend his featherweight title against Routis in a fifteen-round bout at the Garden on Sept. 20. The French challenger's manager is expected to sign immediately.

MAHONING GUN CLUB WILL SHOOT TONIGHT

The Mahoning Gun Club will stage their weekly shoot at 6 o'clock D. S. T. tonight, at the Mahoningtown Range, said Dr. Carpenter today.

Everybody is welcome to come to the range tonight and try their skill at bowling over the clay pigeons.

National Parks Tennis Tourney Is Progressing

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, Aug. 9.—With most of the big guns still booming, the National Public Parks Tennis tournament went into the quarter finals round at Rockefeller Park today. Heavy fighting, on both the doubles and singles fronts, is in prospect this afternoon.

Ted Drewes, the St. Louis sharpshooter, and holder of the Public Parks championship for the last four years, emerged victorious from a sharp engagement with Gus Amsterdam, of Philadelphia, yesterday. The score was 6-2, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3.

Lester Stoefen, of Los Angeles, was almost spiked by a barrage from the racquet of Elmer Rudy, of Baltimore. Stoefen eventually won, however, 6-1, 6-3, 4-6, 3-6, 6-2.

Wayne Fuller, of Cleveland, won from Charles Lejeck, of Chicago, when the latter suffered a cramp in his racket hand and was forced to default in the midst of a closely fought match in which the Chicagoan had a slight edge. Fuller's winning score went down as: 9-7, 3-6, 9-1, 4-2.

Sekyra Defeats James Braddock

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—James J. Braddock, Jersey City light-heavyweight who acted as a sparring partner for Tom Heeney, was nursing a badly swollen left eye. He received the "shiner" last night in a ten round bout at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, with Joe Sekyra, of Dayton, Ohio. Sekyra won the decision by pasting Braddock's injured orb in the last three rounds, and was not particularly impressive in the earlier heats.

Scores Withheld

The News sport department is in receipt of two box scores of the same game today and neither of them is printed.

The scores concern the Slugger-Keystone game for the City Junior championship, played last night at Glasser Field.

The C. C. Sluggers claim that they won the game 8 to 4, and the keystones say they won the game 4 to 3, and both submitted complete box scores.

Johnny Risko's action in claiming the world's heavyweight title vacated by Gene Tunney and posting a forfeit with the New York athletic commission to signify his willingness to defend that title was the proper move on his part. It drew the attention of the boxing public to his claims. And it has the support of the fans of the middle west.

But Risko may not get very far in New York, for the simple reason that he still seems to be on the "outside" as far as Tex Rickard and his cohorts are concerned.

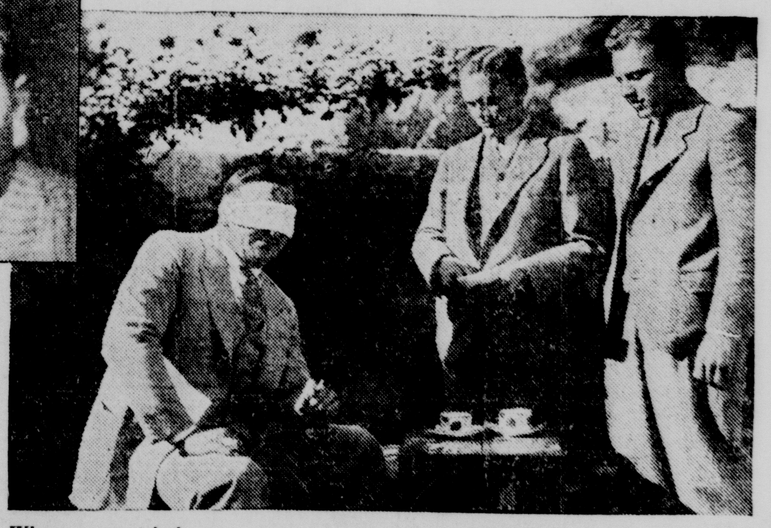
WALLACE BEERY
. . . popular Paramount screen star . . . who plays the leading dramatic roles in "Beggars of Life" and "The Tong War."



"You have heard of some actors that can't be 'doubled' in the movies. Well, OLD GOLD is like that. No other brand can 'double' its fine flavor and smoothness—even in the dark. That's why I picked it in the blindfold test. And that's why—from now on—OLD GOLD and I are going to be 'Partners in Crime.'"

How the test was made . . .

This test was conducted by the representative of a leading Eastern university and a disinterested witness selected by them. Mr. Beery was asked to smoke each of the four leading brands, while blindfolded, clearing his taste with coffee between smokes. Only one question was asked: "Which one do you like best?" He chose OLD GOLD.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

BASEBALL fans of New Castle will journey to Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, Friday to do athletic honor to Harold Haid, a boy from New Castle who has made the grade and is on the pitching staff of the St. Louis Cardinals, National League leaders. Haid has been pitching baseball for ten or more years and he would have been in the Big Show long before this but his bulk kept him behind. However, he is a smart, brainy hurler and this was recognized by Manager Bill McKechnie. It may come to pass that Manager McKechnie may send Harold to the box to pitch against Pittsburgh.

MONDAY night at Jolly Bowl there will be two bouts which will rank even with each other in class. They will be a ten round bout between Dick O'Leary (formerly Jackie Britton) and Johnny Dunn. Dick has knocked out Izzy Schwartz, Jimmie Russell, Harry Kelly, Jerry Parsons, Pete Blevins, Georgie Colabaugh, Billy Jordan and won from Frankie Genaro, Bobby Wolgast, Wee Willie Spencer and Eddie O'Dowd. Dunn has whipped Young Irish, Abe Attel Goldstein, Phil Swick, Steve O'Malley, Freddie Haverlick, Frankie Van, Jacinto Valdez and fought several draws with Johnny Ryan.

THE semi-final will be a battle between Andy Tomaskey who has fought Dunn and Carl Cavelli who staged a whirlwind attack against Willie Davies. No one who witnessed Davies put Cavelli to the floor in the first round then come back strong will stay away from the bowl Monday night as Tomaskey is the same type fighter as Cavelli. As Romeo Pacelli is also on the card as an opponent to Bobby Belford and two good four round bouts are carded fans can expect plenty of action with a probable knockout tossed into the 'going'.

MRS. MAY BUNDY, one of the U. S. outstanding women tennis players two decades ago defeated Miss Edith Cross, San Francisco, in the Meadow club invitation tourney yesterday at East Hampton, 6-4, 11-9. Mrs. Bundy, who has children playing tennis, played spectacularly and kept the large gallery in applause.

THE right arm of Walter Johnson which for 20 years baffled American League batters may be brought into play against International Leaguers. Walter manages the Newark Bears and has been working out for the last month in the hope of doing relief duty for his team which has taken a flop. He was incapacitated during the first part of the season and lost weight but he believes his workouts justifies his appearance as a relief hurler.

SATURDAY afternoon, at three o'clock, the Homestead Grays and and the New Castle O. & P. aggregation will stage another of their many battles and no doubt a large crowd of fans will turn out to see the game. Rarely do the teams fail to please as they are about evenly mated and considerably rivalry exists between the two outfits. Earl Mosely turned in an impressive victory over the Raven Oils a few days ago and it is likely that Manager George Textor will send the old boy to the hill.

Rev. John Stevens of Sterling, Kas., has accepted a call to the Lebanon U. P. church in the Greenfield district, Mercer county, and will move to this locality the latter part of the month. He will take charge of the pastorate the first of September.

Love For Beer Was Downfall To Heeney His Manager Asserts

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Everybody has accused Gene Tunney of having been just about 101 percent fighter the night of the late unpleasantness in connection with the heavyweight championship match. Today on the heels of official confirmation of Tunney's impending marriage, those associated in the management of Tom Heeney, come forward with the estimate that a 101 percent champion beat a six and seven-eights challenger on the night in question.

Beer Hurt Heeney

The answer, according to John Mortimer, who has made no secret of his beliefs, and others of the Heeney menage, was—beer.

They don't mean root beer, either, or the kind some one called near and meant far. Heeney, they say, not only overdid the lager diet, of which he boasted openly, but he even failed to decrease the daily allotment four days before the fight.

Observer at the official weighing in were astonished when Heeney moved the bar all the way up to 203½ pounds, particularly in view of the fact that he weighed around 201 the week before and had dried out for more than twenty-four hours before he went on the scales. They couldn't reconcile his actual weight with the figure he had intended to achieve—198 pounds—or with the fact that never before had he weighed more than 197 pounds for an important fight.

Wrong Training Site

The answer? Beer, says the Heeney management.

It seems the original mistake came in the selection of a training camp that received the benefit of neither mountain nor sea breezes, thus causing the challenger to train hard in the midst of one of the hottest spells of the summer. But the supplementary mistake, it now is admitted, is found in the fact that Heeney was permitted too much latitude with his liquid diet, beer again. The second mistake resulted from the first, as a matter of fact.

The way they explained it, Heeney lost so much weight each day from working in the heat that he concluded beer and ale formed the only nourishment that could reinstate the lost poundage with sufficient rapidity to prevent him from going stale. He, therefore not only began to drink these liquids as a means of "toning his system," as he puts it, but also with the idea of rebuilding lost tissue.

Then came the day of the big megaphone play, Sunday, four days before the fight.

Suddenly Went Stale

Rickard took everybody, including John Bananas and his aunt Martha, down in his private yacht. Dempsey was the head cheer leader of the lot, the idea being to look at Heeney and autcmatically like his chances. It couldn't be done. Heeney never looked worse, even in the eleventh round of the fight itself.

The challenger, they say, immediately jumped to the conclusion that he had gone stale. Futher training of an intensive sort, if such a condition proved to be true would only figure to aggravate matters. Beer drinking, on the other hand, is sometimes prescribed by trainers as a possible means of checking staleness.

So perforce Heeney decreased the amount of his training but not the amount of his beer—at least not until several days before the fight. The result was Heeney's rapid gain in weight, the kind of weight he didn't want and couldn't use. Mortimer commends the fighter for the course he took, declaring that Heeney was badly worried by the weight of the ballyhood he had to shoulder and that relaxation was the only remedy.

The chances are, however, that not even mortimer will deny that a fighter who aimed at 198 pounds and hit 203½ didn't quite achieve the acme of perfection for his big moment.

Four Games In Church League

Four games are on tap tonight in the New Castle Church league. The games will start at 6:30 o'clock daylight savings time.

The First M. E. will meet the Central Presbyterians at the Colonial field. The First Christians will play the First Baptists at Scotland Lane. The Grace & Congregational team will tangle with the Hakoah at the Mahoning field. The Epworth M. E. team meets the Central Christians at the Lehigh field.

American Scull Team Qualifies For Final Event

American Scullers Qualify To Meet In Finals By Defeating Austrians

(International News Service)

SLOTEN, Holland, Aug. 9.—The United States double sculls entry in the Olympic regatta qualified for the finals today by defeating Austria in the semi-final by two and a half lengths.

Charles Merilvaine and Paul V. Costello, the Penn A. C. pair representing the United States covered the 2,000 meter course in seven minutes 2 2-5 seconds and led all the way.

At 500 meters they were a length in front and gradually increased this lead without being extended by their opponents.

The Americans will meet the Canadian team in the finale tomorrow. Canada drew a bye and did not have to compete in the semi-finals. The Canadian team covered the course in seven minutes 28 2-5 seconds in a trial spin today.

Having already qualified in the finals of the single sculls, four-oared shell without coxswain, and eight oared shell, the United States will be represented in four of the seven final rowing events tomorrow.

EDENBURG-HILLSVILLE TO BATTLE TONIGHT

The Edenburg team meets the Hillsville team tonight at 6:30 o'clock at the Hillsville field in a National section Twilight league encounter. The game will start at 6:30 o'clock.

Diana and Brooks have been assigned to the umpiring roles. The Edenburg team still has an outside chance to grab the pennant in the National section and they will go out tonight to defeat the Hillsville team. Miller or Hofmeister will hurl for the Edenburg team. It is likely that Augustine will work the game for the Hillsville team.

On Saturday afternoon at Edenburg the Ryantown team will be the attraction. The game is scheduled to start at 5:30 o'clock daylight savings time.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Industrial stocks on the big board received better support in early trading today, and moderate recoveries were scored in a number of the speculative leaders. Short covering of the motors and oils created a considerable buying demand for General Motors, Chrysler and other well known shares. Oils received the benefit of further advances in the market prices of crude and refined oil.

Westinghouse was a leader in the specialties, with a new 3-point advance to above 90. Buying of the stock was accompanied by reports of important forthcoming developments in the radio field. Radio Corporation emerged from the inactive list and was driven upward about 5 points on a comparatively heavy turnover, to the accompaniment of reports of a large influx of new business for the corporation.

The money market puzzle was still unsolved. Call rates were posted at 7 percent, and none too much was offered even at that rate.

Republic iron and steel was a leader in the impependent steels, with a 3-point rise to 63 on reports of its possible acquisition of the sheets and tubes, Inc., of Cleveland, manufacturers of welded pipe. Call money renewals, 7 per cent.

London Heat Wave Sunburns Millions

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 9.—London's teeming millions have become sunburnt, as result of the heat-wave that has swept the country. Many people who usually do not become sunburnt even when exposed to prolonged sunshine, are wondering how it is they have become "browned."

The explanation of the unusual process of sun burning, which is happening even in the center of London, was given by Doctor Albert Edinox, of the National Institute of Medical Research, who declared.

"People are being browned, because of the large quantity of ultra-violet rays penetrating the atmosphere. Not for five years has there been such a host of these rays which are so beneficial to the human body.

"The penetration is greater now than at other times, said Dr. Edinox, "because there is only a thin layer of ozone at a high altitude. Consequently the ultra-violet rays are able to get through instead of being absorbed by the ozone."

"A number of people are suffering from sores and other skin complaints because they are not accustomed to this large amount of ultra-violet radiation," Dr. Edinox concluded.

Suggestions Given To Motorists Going Into Strange Cities

Motorists whose business or vacation trips take them into strange cities for longer than the briefest of intervals should register their vehicles with local authorities and get a copy of the municipal traffic regulations, says Bernard N. Hanlon, secretary-manager of the New Castle Motor club, who points out that this practice establishes the visitor as one who wishes to conform with the requirements of safe driving, wherever he may be.

"For the casual visit of a day or so for mere sight-seeing purposes, this is unnecessary, and adoption of such a policy by the individual traveler would be burdensome to himself and the municipal officers," says Mr. Hanlon. "The plan is an excellent one, however, for the visitor whose call is to be stretched out for a week or more, as it establishes good faith and stamps him as one who is desirous of knowing and abiding by the traffic regulations of the city or town playing host to his party."

Seaman Hurt In Daring Rescue

Liner Algonquin Rescues Five Men Adrift In Storm Tossed Motor-Boat At Sea

SEAMAN INJURED AIDING RESCUE

(International News Service)

ABOARD S. S. ALGONQUIN, Aug. 9—(via radio to International News Service)—Seaman Washington of the Mallory Liner Algonquin is suffering today from a fractured skull sustained when he aided in the rescue of five men adrift in the motor boat Clementine May 85 miles north of Jupiter Lighthouse on the east coast of Florida yesterday. The heavy seas, whipped up by the hurricane which has been sweeping Florida, made the rescue difficult and Washington was injured in helping to get the five men aboard the steamship.

The 300 passengers aboard the Algonquin cheered Captain B. W. Leek for stopping to rescue the crew of the launch when the steamship was being badly buffetted by the high seas herself. The men in the launch said they had sighted several tankers during the two days they were adrift in the hurricane but that the crews of these vessels, fleeing to escape the fury of the storm, had refused to stop and rescue them.

The Algonquin is enroute to New York city.

Stolen Automobile Located In Garage At Grove City

GROVE CITY, Aug. 9—A stolen automobile, the property of a Pittsburgh resident, was located in the Foster garage on North Broad street yesterday by Chief of Police Charles Ray.

The car, a Packard club sedan, was stolen in Pittsburgh several months ago. The license number was wired Chief Ray by city police, with a request to search local garages. Ray took charge of the machine pending the arrival of insurance officials. Foster, owner of the garage, stated that the car had been left at his garage by a man who failed to return for it and left no forwarding address. Considerable repair work had been done upon the car.

Foster later received a letter from the supposed owner offering the machine for sale at a low figure, but giving only vague directions for the method of payment and his address.

Good breakfasts mean good days

A good breakfast starts you off to a good day.

And that's just what Heinz Rice Flakes do! Not only are they good because they taste so good. They're good because they do you good.

The reason is that these crispy, crunchy flakes are naturally "laxatized" by the use of the natural roughage of the rice. This imparts to the flakes the qualities of a gentle, natural laxative and is due to a new Heinz process in cereal-making. Thus Heinz Rice Flakes add to the "Joy of Living".

FORMER AMERICAN RECORD BROKEN

By FREDERICK K. ABBOTT,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

OLYMPIC SMIMMING STADIUM, Amsterdam, Aug. 9.—A new Olympic record for the 800-metre relay was established today by the American team composed of Samson, Young, Weismuller and Clapp during the first elmination heats. The Americans swam the distance in nine minutes, 38 4-5 seconds. The previous Olympic record, made by an American team in Paris in 1924 was 9 minutes 53 4-5 seconds.

The Japanese team was second in 9:58 3-5, Sweden was third and Argentina fourth.

Swimming in the third position, Weismuller gave Clapp a 20 yard lead over his Japanene opponent enabling Clapp to ease up and still finish ten yards ahead.

Kojac and Laufer were held out of the American team today since they are competing in the 100-metre swim this afternoon, but they will probably swim in the final of the 800-metre relay with Samson and Weismuller.

The qualifiers for the final of the 800-metre relay are the United States, Japan, Canada, Great Britain, Hungary, Spain and Sweden.

The Canadian team won the second heat in 9:55 3-5 and Hungary won the third heat in 9:45 3-5.

Women Break Record

Another Olympic record was broken by American swimmers in the women's 400-meter relay, when the American team won the first heat in 4 minutes 55 3-5 seconds. The previous record of 4 minutes 58 4-5 seconds was made by an American women's team at Paris in 1924. The American team in the eliminations today was composed of Miss Adelaide Lambert,, Miss Josephine Mckim, Miss Susan Laird and Miss Alina Osipowitch, swimming in that order.

Gigolo Shows As War Hero In Film Shown In Paris

(International News Service)

PARIS, Aug 9.—The gigolo, the male taxi dancer, recently classed as an industrial worker by the Paris police prefect, has had new honors conferred upon him. In Chantage (Blackmail in English), the new French film, he gets credit for being everything that popular belief says he is not. The plot includes a professional dancer who is revealed as a war hero, loyal to his friends, devoted to his wife and father of several bouncing babies.

The gigolos, who consent to take lonely ladies for a spin around the dance floors of local night clubs at so much per turn, have been accused of everything under the sun. Their social status has been lower than that of an Indian pariah. The film version may help to shatter some of this prejudice.

FOOLISH AND TRAGIC

After dancing many hours in an effort to make a perfectly useless record for long-distance dancing, four dancers became temporarily demented. One girl beats and scratches her companion. Another babbees senselessly. They are put under restrain. It would be a happier world if all fools were funny. When a fool is not even ridiculous he is a tragic figure, indeed. Those marthon dancers do not become demented. They are demented.

NO LOVE RULES

Social workers who think they can make statistics about everything say men have the tendency to let their love affairs die out at the age of 30 or thereabouts. Women, they say, begin all over again after 40. Fact is, nobody, not even a trained social worker, can make rules to fit folks in love. Some behave one way and some another.

CAN YOU LOOK ABOUT?

When you wake up in the morning can you clearly, honestly , without evasion or self-deceit, face the facts in your life? Can you look forward toward what you expect to do without shame or fear or doubt? If there is real contentment in this world it comes from this ability to face all the facts and to proceed clamly, without any make-believe.

QUICK PROMISERS

Do you know any quick and easy promisers? They are always apparently eager to do something for you, and they promise support, attention, service of all sorts. By and by you learn they are late on delivery. They fail to get into production or they are procrastinators or forgetful or selfish. Don't give the quick and easy promiser credit for being thoughtful and unselfish. Watch his ultimate delivery. Watch his production.

HEAT

Now and then you find a man who wears a vest and a medium weight suit all summer and appears to be more comfortable than his coatless friend in mohair and palm beach. Perhaps feeling the heat is more a matter of eating and internal excitement than of mere temperatures. If you let yourself get excited and upset over your work or over anything else, you suffer from the heat. So you will, if you insist on eating rare roast beef and such for lunch. Eat lightly and think in an orderly fashion, and you won't have to adopt extreme dress or spend your time at the drink counter to keep cool.

A sufficient commentary on human nature is the general astonishment when a rich bankrupt says he will pay what he owes.

Wealthy Erie Man Touring Ireland Is Pneumonia Victim

Charles Rutherford Crouch, Dies Of Pneumonia In Hospital In Belfast

(International News Service)

BELFAST Ireland, Aug. 9.—Charles Rutherford Crouch, a business man of New York and Erie, Pa., died of pneumonia today while on a honeymoon tour of Europe. His wife was at his bedside when he died.

Crouch's body will be embalmed and shipped to New York aboard the liner Franconia on Saturday.

Crouch was described as a banker and mill owner. His home was at 916 Myrtle street, Erie, although his business interests compelled him to spend a great deal of time in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Crouch had decided to return to New York on August 4 but cancelled this plan when they found they could not get adjoining cabins on the liner Mauretania. While waiting for a later ship they decided to make a sight seeing trip to the Killarney Lake region. While boating a shower came up and Crouch's clothing was soaked. He was forced to row 12 miles before he could get into dry clothing. He caught a severe cold which developed into pneumonia. He died at a hospital in this city.

Highest Scalp Awards Are Made

Ceremonies At Camp Phillips On Wednesday Night Particularly Impressive

The scalp ceremony Wednesday night was especially impressive at Camp Phillips when three scouts received the scalp of Minisino which is the highest that the Camp Phillips scalp system awards.

The Minisino or chief requires that the scout be an Eagle Scout, pass swimming and diving, describe three new camp games, build a stone wall using mud morter and give the life history of Monarch and Siliadae. He must also get the recommendation of the camp staff which states that he enters into the camp spirit, obeys orders has exhibited qualities of leadership, is trustworthy and respects those in command.

The scouts that received this scalp were John Boston, William Wheeler and Harry Shannon, all of New Castle.

The scalp of Medicine Man is the next lower and was presented to Clyde Shannon, James Metzler, William McKim, Harold Charbonnier, Ted Ropp and Jack Stevenson.

The scalp of Grand Sachem was given to James Charbonnier and Junior Brown. The Runner scalp was presented to Charles Lockart and Tom Trodden, while the Wayseeker scalp was given to Milton Caplin. Camp Director Leroi N. Norton states that he is well pleased with the work that the scouts are doing.

Merit Badges

The following merit badges were passed today: Junior Brown, Signalling; John Hancher, Bird Study; Bob Johnston, Swimming; Bill McKim, Painting; Bob Kennedy and Harvey Clyde, Woodcarving; John Watson, Scholarship; Jack Stevenson, Basketery; Clyde Shannon, Life Saving. The following boys passed first class First Aid: Bob Brown, Bob Ferris and Don Howells. The following boys passed first class Signalling: Tom Barnes, Charles Lockart and Bill Mintier.

Scout Executive J. Lee Calahan was welcomed back to camp when he returned from New York where he attended the National Camping Commission.

Rev. Davidson of Enon Valley, is spending a few days at the camp. He is scoutmaster of Enon Valley scout troop and expects his boys the first of the week.

The new first aid hut that Scoutmaster Davis started when he was here is now completed. It has been refinished and newly painted and is now ready for use. The camp hopes that they will not have to use it but in case they do Camp Phillips have one of the most complete first aid buildings.

Bill McKim, Bob Williams, Jack Stevenson and John Watson went berry picking and returned with enough blackberries to supply the camp with blackberry pie which the cooks made.

Stunt night was held in the auditorium this evening and the group that put on the best act got one dollar in trade at the trading post.

Y. M. C. A. Boys Begin Chest Aid Campaign

Last night at the dinner given at the Y. M. C. A. some 50 boys pledged themselves to sell not less than 200 tickets for the show at the Cathedral which is to benefit the underwriters in the Community Chest campaign.

The Y announced some time ago that it would adopt this plan to aid the Chest fund and last night the boys pledged to make it a success. Each took from two to 15 tickets each.

Every boy that sells five tickets gets a free dinner, boys who sell 10 get the free dinner and a Y. M. C. A. emblem and those who sell 15 get a free ticket to the Cathedral in addition to the emblem and the dinner. John Leonard, director of the campaign, asks that all the boys who are selling tickets report Saturday morning.

Following the dinner last evening at which the sale of the tickets were pledged to be sold, the boys enjoyed an entertainment of stunts and then all took to the pool for a swim.

If he says girls drink a lot, he means he has in the course of five years actually seen three girls take a drink.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

There really was only one place to do much roaming last night, out in Cascade Park where the Scottish Rite held its picnic. If you were out there or by there you probably saw that field of automobiles. Looked like some one had planted a couple of acres of motor seed and the crop was a heavy one.

The sideshow seemed to attract the largest crowd of people. Here was gathered a wonderful aggregation of all-star attractions. The Boy With A Snake Skin, the Fat Girl, Zara the Dancer and others. And together with the natural stars was a collection of Pennsylvania wild animals furnished through the courtesy of H. J. Sines and Frank Johnson that attracted the sight seers.

The prettiest exhibit was probably the two young fawn deer. Those gentle eyes of theirs, and the white spotted coat they sported had the women crowding around, while the boys seem more taken with the antics of two cub bears who rooted around in their stall. Then the 26 ring necked pheasants that all tried to get under the wings of the bantam hen that was mothering them, and the raccoons and the horned owl. An interesting exhibition.

Soldo the Great put on an exhibition of his Black Magic and the kids held their breath in awe as he went through some of the stuff that made a fortune for Harry Houdini.

Think tomorrow's roaming will be down to Forbes Field to swell the crowd that pays tribute to Harold Haid, New Castle pitcher who burns them over the plate for the St. Louis Cardinals. Ball players are human you know, and Haid will undoubtedly appreciate the little testimonial of good will. His manager Bill McKechnie is already on record as mightily pleased with it, and the Pittsburgh Ball Club has offered to do anything it can to assist in the affair. Why not drive in with the boys and be a part of it? You can still get a ticket from John J. Mather, chairman of the event.

Insofar as I know, carp have never been listed as game fish. My idea has been that a carp just eats anything it can get and grows and grows. But it seems that the carp up in French Creek are some relation to bears or tigers.

Attorney Samuel L. Clark was fishing in the creek a few days ago and hooked a monster carp and in the melee which followed the carp pulled Sam into the creek. It was the biggest carp ever seen in that section of the country, and Wallace Wysner swears that it took three small pigs to stuff the carp when it was baked.

Fish stories have fallen off a bit in the past few weeks, but this carp story seems to have hit the peak of such tales this summer.

FALLS ON STAIR; IN COMMA 9 DAYS

PAINESVILLE, O., Aug. 9.—Miss Maud Norton, 42, of Perry Village, east of here, was still unconscious today as the result of injuries received in a fall from the top of a staircase on July 30.

Dr. W. R. Carle, attending physician, said Miss Norton opened her eyes last night for the first time since the accident but did not speak.

The woman's skull was severely injured when her head struck the bottom step. She is being cared for at her home.

The case is a parallel to that of Helen Buschman, Lake Erie College girl, who was in a state of coma at Lake County Memorial hospital here for 195 days after she was struck by a motor bus at Mentor.

Miss Buschman was taken to her home in Westfield, Mass., last week. Advices received here say her condition is unchanged.
